Ballot Test Is First Since Eden Quit His Position

Chamberlain's Attitude is Handed Severe Blow by Defeat of Tory Candidate in West Fulham, London

LONDON, April 7.—Arthur Horner, president of the South Wales Miners' Federation, today demanded the Spanish government be granted the right to buy arms in Great Britain. In a renewed attack on the British government's opposition to Spanish government purchases, Horner pledged 125,000 members to try "to bring about defeat of reaction, beginning with our national government."

LONDON, April 7.—The Labor party Wednesday won from the government the first House of Commons seat at stake in a by-election since Anthony Eden resigned as foreign secretary in protest against Prime Minister Chamberlain's foreign policy.

Dr. Edith Summerskill defeated the Conservative candidate, C. J. Busby, by a majority of 1,421 votes in the previously Conservative constituency of West Fulham in London, polling 16,583 votes to Mr. Busby's 15,162.

BACK TO LEAGUE

She immediately announced an ultimatum to the government to go "back to the League (of Nations) or get out."

Amid Labor rejoicing, Dr. Summerskill declared:

"I won because the people of Fulham, speaking for the rest of the nation, have no faith in the National government.

"The people have delivered their ultimatum—back to the league or get out."

Conservatives fought the campaign on the issue of the government's foreign policy of non-intervention in Spain and negotiations toward a friendship pact with Italy. It was over Italian negotiations that Mr. Eden resigned.

PREMIER SUPPORTS

Mr. Chamberlain, Dominions Secretary Malcolm MacDonald and other cabinet ministers had publicly supported Mr. Busby through open letters. Labor attacked the government for what it charged was a "betrayal" of the League of Nations and a "drift toward war."

"Mr. Chamberlain's child-like

By-Election Shows Rank and File Oppose Chamberlain Policy

LONDON, April 7—Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain's foreign policy does not meet with the approval of the rank and file of Britishers. The defeat of the government candidate in West Fulham, the London suburban constituency which has not returned anyone but a Conservative for the past 20 years, is significant.

This is the first by-election held since Anthony Eden resigned, and the Conservative majority of 4,488 in 1935 was totally wiped out and this time Labor took the seat by a majority of 1,421, electing Dr. Edith Summerskill, who will be the 12th woman member of the Commons.

ISSUE OF CAMPAIGN

The whole issue of the campaign was Chamberlain's non-intervention policy in Spain and criticism of negotiations with Mussolini and Hitler.

The Man on the Street has no faith in either the aims and intentions nor the promises of the dictators. A reported boast by Mussolini that "Chamberlain will let me win the Spanish war and then pay me to take my troops out of Spain" aroused fierce resentment.

CANADA INVITED TO CO-OPERATE FOR REFUGEES

LONDON, April 7.—The United States government is inviting Canada direct to co-operate in the American scheme to assist refugees from Germany and Austria. The United Kingdom and 16 other governments already have accepted.

Invitations to those domonions which have their own representation in Washington were sent direct. To the other dominions they were sent via London.

Viscount Halifax, secretary for foreign affairs, assured the American ambassador, J. P. Kennedy, that the British government shares the concern which prompted the U. S. proposal and that the United Kingdom is anxious to co-operate to the fullest possible extent.

SINO-JAPANESE WAR NOW IS AT CRUCIAL POINT

Nine Months' Fighting Reaches at Least Temporary Stalemate

SHANGHAI, April 7.—Japan's war with China, nine months old today, has reached at least a temporary stalemate with little indication of how or when it will end.

The Rising Sun army, which swept through the northern cities of Peiping and Tientsin last summer, drove the Chinese out of Shanghai, November 9, and captured Nanking December 13, has been unable to swallow the vast Lunghai area of central China.

A stubborn army of 400,000 Chinese has kept the invaders from reaching the Lunghai railroad, China's east-west lifeline through the heart of the area which separates Japanese northern conquests from captured Nanking, Shanghai, and the LONDON, April 7.—Those Germans and Austrians living in Great Britain who want to vote in next Sunday's "Anschluss plebiscite" will be permitted to embark aboard the German steamship Wilhelm Gustloff for a one-day excursion out to sea, it was announced in the House of Commons by Richard Butler, foreign under-secretary.

Pioneer Dies

SAINT JOHN, N.B., April 7.—Mrs. Julia Elvira Irvine, 86, died here last night at the home of her daughter, Mrs. J. E. Angevine. She was the widow of Capt. John E. Irvine, associated with the old shipping firm of Troup and Son.

EMMANUEL SHINWELL

LONDON, April 7.—Emmanuel Shinwell, Laborite member of the British House of Commons, made history recently when he rushed across the floor of the House and struck Commander Robert Tatton Bower across the face. It was the first time in living memory that one member struck another. The blow, followed taunting remarks made by Bower, who is quoted as having shouted across the floor of the House at Shinwell: "Go back to Poland."

BLUM PREDICTS DIRE DISASTER FRENCH NATION

Political and Economic Crisis Grave—Casts Long Shadow

By DEWITT MacKENZIE
Associated Press Foreign Affairs Writer.

PARIS, April 7.—A thousand Leftists, massed outside the Senate, fought late today with a group of Fascist students. Communists, Socialists and anarchists turned on the Fascist students when the latter strode into the demonstration, giving the Fascist salute.

NEW YORK, April 7—The French political and economic crisis is grave and casts a long shadow.

Socialist Premier Blum summed the position up for a worried Chamber of Deputies when he predicted civil strife and bankruptcy unless the government adopted drastic measures.

The chief underlying causes of this situation—one of the most serious in the history of the republic—are two:

1—The French Revolution, as someone has remarked, isn't yet finished. There is a steadily growing class warfare.

2—The country is straining its

HITLER BUILDING ROADS TO AID AUSTRIA JOBLESS

SALZBURG, Austria, April 7.—Backed by a force of spade-armed workers, Chancellor Hitler today set out to fight the battle of Austria's 600,000 unemployed.

Thousands of Austrian workers and peasants, including many jobless, cheered the Fuehrer madly as he turned the first spadeful of earth for a new automobile super highway extending Germany's road system across Austria through Vienna to the Hungarian border.

At Salzburg it will join the highway from Munich, through Berchtesgaden, Hitler's mountain retreat.

Hunger March To Edmonton Is Unemployed Plan

CALGARY, April 7.—A "hunger march" of 2,000 single unemployed men to Edmonton next Monday, was discussed by members of the Calgary Single Unemployed Union today.

"The present government is due for a shock," said A. McAllister, a member of the union executive. "They haven't had a march on them yet but if they are still in session next week they will find out what it is like."

Banks Balk Dividends, Now Claim

Federal Government Supports Financial Institutions to Thwart Alberta Government in Aims, Statement Claims

Action by the Alberta government in implementing distribution of dividends and reducing taxation is barred only by "deliberate opposition of the banks and financial institutions, supported by the federal government," according to the annual report of the Alberta Social Credit Board, tabled in the legislature on Wednesday by Hon. Solon E. Low, provincial treasurer, under whose jurisdiction affairs of the board are carried on.

The report is signed by Glen L. MacLachlan, chairman of the Social Credit Board and member of the legislature for Coronation; Floyd M. Baker, S.C., Clover Bar and secretary of the board and S. A. Berg, S.C., Alexandra; W. E. Hayes, S.C., Stony Plain and Dr. J. L. McPherson, S.C. Vegreville.

The report, comprehensive in nature, contains a large amount of statistical information.

It also deals with the course of lectures in social dynamics. Legislation is also dealt with.

SHIFTING TAXATION

The report deals with shifting of taxation from individuals to institutions and it also directs attention to the changing of the tax base from property to production and income, a feature which had been recommended.

Tribute is paid to the press in the report. One newspaper, states the report, is using verbatim the weekly discussions by cabinet ministers while the daily press, as a whole, gave fair treatment to news stories given out for publication.

Analyzing the capital assets of the province, the report states that if natural resources were exploited at the rate of one half of one per

THREE NORTH INDIANS DIE FROM POISON

Several Others Seriously Ill After Eating Tinned Bully Beef

Ptomaine poisoning, believed to have been contracted by eating spoiled bully beef, has already claimed the lives of three Indian trappers and left a whole community of a dozen natives living at McQueen Lake, about 25 miles east of Resolution, seriously ill, it was reported by Harry Winny Canadian Airways pilot who arrived in Edmonton from the north Thursday morning.

The poisoning struck the community Monday night after they had finished a supper of tinned bully beef, he said. All of them were affected, some of them seriously.

Tuesday morning one of the party, who was the least affected, harnessed up a dog team and, placing two of the sickest Indians on a

MacLellan To Give Increased Pay To Charity

A. E. MacLellan, Social Credit member for Innisfail, has the courage of his convictions.

When the government brought in its measure to bring back the reductions in indemnities and restore members payments to the $2,000 mark he objected strenuously. In spite of his objections the measure passed.

But today Mr. MacLellan informed members of the press gallery that he did not intend to keep the $200. Instead he will donate it to charity.

With that end in view he is mailing a cheque for $100 to the Lacombe Home at Midnapore, Alberta, and a cheque for a similar amount to the Woods Christian Home in Calgary. The cheques are going forward today.

PROROGATION IS SOUGHT BY THIS WEEK-END

With 44 bills and three resolutions left on the order paper, the legislature on Thursday afternoon commenced a drive to clear the decks so that prorogation could take place before the week-end.

On the face of it, the task seems most formidable, but there is hope that the goal will be achieved.

Of the 44 bills left, 19 are ready for third reading, which means they have passed through various stages of discussion and only a motion to recommit to the committee, would bring them back.

That leaves 25, of which 19 are in committee stage and six ready for second reading.

Of this total, only three appear to have any signs of contention about them.

These are the production tax bill, the hail insurance bill and the gas conservation bill, providing for a board of three to control the industry.

PAIR MAYBE QUITE AT SEA ON THE RIVER

PRESCOTT, Ont., April 7.—A young couple from the United States had fond dreams of being married "at sea" by the captain of a boat. Crossing the St. Lawrence from Godenburg, they asked Capt. J. PLANE PLUNGES INTO SEA: THREE AIRMEN KILLED

LONDON, April 7.—Three Royal Air Force fliers were killed today when their reconnaissance plane exploded and fell into the North Sea.

The air ministry officially identified the plane which had been the object of a widespread search near Dudgeon Light, off the Humber Estuary, where it was seen to burst into flames. Searchers found only oil patches and bits of wreckage.

The crash was the 34th in the Royal Air Force since January 1, and raised its death toll to 58 since then.

Grand Forks Is Opposed Giving Vote To Douks

GRAND FORKS, B.C., April 7.—Mayor T. A. Love of this West Kootenay town, said today people of his community were "up in arms" at the proposal before the House of Commons to return the franchise to Doukhobors in Canada.

The Russian immigrants were disenfranchised in 1934. Proposed revision of Canada's electoral statutes would give them the vote again. About 12,000 of the religious sect members live in British Columbia.

TOKYO, April 7.—Japan feels it "imperative" she maintain command of the western Pacific and is concerned gravely over the possibility the United States might expand its sphere of influence there, Rear-Admiral Kiyoshi Noda, admiralty spokesman, said today.

Discussing the speech of foreign policy by Cordell Hull, United States secretary of state, on March 17, and his letter on April 3 to Chairman David Walsh of the Senate finance committee, opposing a stay-at-home policy for the navy, and holding it must be free to defend Americans anywhere, Admiral Noda asserted:

Cancellation Of Private Debts Is House Proposal

Amendment to Adjustment Act is Approved In Principle by Legislature But Enactment Deferred For Present

Unless a debtor and creditor reach an amicable accord on a new agreement in the meantime, private debts incurred before July 1, 1936, will be cancelled after July 1, 1940, if an amendment to the Debt Adjustment Act now before the legislature is finally ratified. The measure was discussed by the house sitting in committee of the whole on Wednesday.

The house approved the principle of the amendment and then stood over the section applying to wiping out old debts, to decide whether it should be placed in the Debt Adjustment Act or the Statute of Limitations.

PORTION OF BILL

The portion of the bill which drew approval as to principle is as follows:

"On, from and after the first day of July, 1940, no action shall lie for enforcing the payment of any debt incurred before the first day of July, 1936, unless in the interval between the said dates—

(a) The person liable for the payment of such debt by himself or by his agent has by means of an instrument in writing entered into a new agreement for the payment thereof, or

(b) Any action or other proceedings for enforcing the payment thereof have been taken in a court of competent jurisdiction in the province."

Purpose of this section is to provide a cut-off date for old debts, Hon. Lucien Maynard, minister of municipal affairs, explained to the house. This section meant that the Government Defences Fail At Village Of Vallibona, Spain

HENDAYE, France, April 7.—Spanish government defences crumbled before a fresh insurgent march to Spain's east coast today as insurgent red and gold banners fluttered at the village of Vallibona.

The village is 22 miles from the seacoast town of Vinaroz. General Franco's armored columns there threatened to outflank the government left wing defending the Ebro river delta city of Tortosa from positions in the Razas and Montenegrelo mountains.

The insurgent right wing marched from Morella while fierce counter-attacks from reinforced government units staved off further frontal advances upon Tortosa.

Simultaneous action along the northern Catalan front brought the city of Balaguer—northern end of the government's new defence line between Lerida and Barcelona—under insurgent control.

Mop-up squads continued operations in the northern Aragon territory, threatening to send a fresh influx of refugees into neutral France. French border officials massed troops at Port De Plan, Bagneser De Luchon, and Fos, in expectation of the arrival of thousands of refugees.

U.S. May Give Anti-Air Arms Big Assistance

WASHINGTON, April 7.—The United States senate, impressed by the destructive power of aerial bombing in Spain and China, proposed today to multiply the army's supply of anti-aircraft weapons.

The $491,000,000 war department appropriation bill which the senate approved late yesterday includes funds for 308 quick-firing three-inch anti-aircraft guns.

LEVY ON FARM PRODUCTION IS UNDER DEBATE

Municipal Services, Crop Insurance, Reserve Fund Features

Provision of municipal services, crop insurance and establishment of a reserve are the three main features of the new provincial legislation providing or a seven per cent portion of all agricultural produce to go to the government.

This was pointed out by Hon. Lucien Maynard, minister of municipal affairs, in moving second reading of the bill in the legislature on Wednesday. Debate on second reading was adjourned and will be continued in the house on Thursday, when E. L. Gray, Alberta Liberal leader, will speak.

Mr. Maynard directed attention to clause three, in which it is provided that the government is to get seven undivided one hundredth parts of all agricultural produce after the Act is proclaimed.

He said this was to get around legal difficulties surrounding a tax of this nature and he recalled that the privy council had discussed such a point in a previous tax on

Hon. Ian Mackenzie Threatens To Invoke Official War Secrets Act

NEWS REPORT ON DEFENCES ANGER CAUSE

Moving Armaments From Halifax To Vancouver Report Said Inaccurate

OTTAWA, April 7.—"If scurrilous articles such as this are repeated it may be necessary to resort to the provisions of the official war secrets act," Hon. Ian Mackenzie, minister of defence, told the House of Commons Wednesday during discussion of a Halifax Star editorial dealing with alleged movements of armaments in that garrison city.

Howard Green (Con., Vancouver South) read a part of the editorial published Tuesday, while a number of members, including Prime Minister Mackenzie King, objected on a point of order. Mr. Green questioned its accuracy and references to Vancouver defences.

DENIED BY MINISTER

Mr. Green said he believed the Halifax Star was "the evening edition of the Halifax Chronicle," whose news story on the same subject, carried in The Canadian Press service Monday, was denied by the minister in the house Tuesday.

Under the title "What goes on behind the scenes," the editorial told of "feverish movements" of armaments to and from Halifax and of "guns torn from their positions, put on flat cars and headed for Vancouver to protect British Columbia and Ian Mackenzie's constituents from the yellow peril."

"This is the most absolute nonsense," Mr. Mackenzie declared. There had been some movements about Nova Scotia of reserve armaments in Halifax. Tuesday he declared nothing had been done to impair the defences at Halifax but that they had been strengthened.

BECOME CUSTOM

During debate on the point of order challenging Mr. Green's right to read the editorial, opposition leader Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett said he had taken the stand when first in opposition and later as prime minister that editorials should not be read. He still believed it was undesirable but it had become a custom and when he was prime minister the Liberal opposition had taken "much glory" in reading editorials attacking him.

That part of the editorial Mr. Green succeeded in reading follows:

"During recent weeks there has been much ado in military circles around Halifax. Giant guns have been uprooted from their emplacements along the harbor mouth. Munitions have been moved to and fro about the waterfront.

COVER OF NIGHT

"Most of the activities have been conducted under cover of night and everything done with the utmost secrecy—barring what gets told to every Tom, Dick and Harry around military canteens.

"First the guns were torn from their positions, put on flat cars and started off for Vancouver to protect British Columbia and Ian Mackenzie's constituents against the yellow peril. Then somebody changed their mind, according to reports, and the guns came trundling back again.

"On top of all that, somebody began to rip out guns from emplacements at Vancouver and start them off for Halifax.

"Everything was done in feverish haste, almost as if the entire Imperial Japanese navy had already been sighted in Juan De Fuca strait and heading for Victoria."

lower Yangtze river valley plains.

Chinese analysis of the failure of Japanese to take the Lunghai speedily was that besides stiff frontal resistance, Japanese have faced increasing difficulties in shipping supplies, ammunition and reinforcements to the southern Lunghai battle area.

The shortage of Japanese supplies, Chinese declared, has reached the point where Japanese artillery often is silent for lack of shells during actual operations.

sleigh, started for the hospital at Resolution.

MUSHED TO HOSPITAL

Despite his own illness, this Indian, whose name could not be learned, mushed his dogs over the snow-covered ice of Great Slave Lake, arriving at the hospital late in the afternoon. He himself was near collapse.

One of the Indians, however, died during the night. Hope is still held for the life of the other.

Dr. J. E. Amyot had the radio operator contact Canadian Airways and Harry Winny about to fly into Edmonton from Fort Smith, dashed to Resolution. He took the doctor with a supply of medicine, to the village.

TWO MORE DEAD

Arriving there twenty minutes after leaving Resolution, they found that two more Indians had died during the night. Two women still lay seriously ill and the others were nearly recovered.

Leaving medicines for those that were well enough, they carried the two sick women in the plane to Resolution. At the present time the two are expected to recover.

Police from Resolution have gone to the camp and the bully beef tins and samples of the meat, as well as unopened cans are being sent to the University of Alberta for analysis, Pilot Winny reported.

faith in the dictators is not shared by the people of the country," Dr. Summerskill said after her victory was announced.

"They remember with alarm that at the very moment the national government was asking the nation to have faith in their negotiations with Mussolini he was boasting about his troops invading Spain.

"This government has turned its back on the League. This election has been fought on Labor's demand that peaceful nations must become a chain so strong that the bullies of Europe dare not risk further aggression."

LIBERALITY FOR SPAIN

Victory for Labor in the London seat where the voters are mostly small wage earners—workers, small [illegible], seamstresses and barbers—was interpreted in party circles as strengthening the campaign for more liberal treatment of the Spanish government which has appealed for the right to buy munitions in Great Britain.

The News-Chronicle (Liberal) said editorially the Labor victory "is a severe blow for the government and a striking victory for the progressive cause."

The Daily Telegraph (Conservative) replied editorially that "the result may perhaps serve as a warning to the government, not that their policy fails to command the assent of the country, but that they have hitherto taken too little pains in rebutting the opposition campaign of misrepresentation."

BLOW TO GOVERNMENT

West Fulham was regarded as a good test for a by-election. It was held by Labor briefly after the 1929 by-election. Conservatives won it back in 1930 and held it until yesterday. In the 1935 general election Sir Cyril Cobb polled [illegible] votes to [illegible] for Dr. M. Follick, Labor and [illegible] for a Liberal candidate.

Describing the Labor victory in West Fulham as a severe blow for the government, the News Chronicle added: "Coming just at the time when details of the agreement with Italy are filtering through, it is a decisive rejection of the hole-in-the-corner diplomacy pursued by Mr. Chamberlain since Mr. Eden was sacrificed under foreign threats."

Newest Popgun Gives Flies Sporting Chance

CHICAGO, April 7.—The lowly house fly, clubbed down by swatters these long years, finally has won a sporting chance for life.

A fly popgun, invented by J. E. Kahler of Kankakee, Ill., and displayed at the National Inventors' Congress Tuesday, gives Mr. Fly an extra margin of safety and his hunters the thrills of a safari without leaving the parlor.

The weapon holds a plunger with a rubber tip the size of a quarter. Mr. Fly lights on wall, the hunter creeps up on him, aims and fires. Mr. Fly is all through making four-point landings on papa's bald spot.

And what's more, the tip of the plunger is so designed it won't flatten the fly and add his corpse to the wall-paper design.

HOUSE DEALS WITH 7 BILLS ON WEDNESDAY

Four Of These Reported and Stand Ready For Final Reading

Seven bills were dealt with by the legislature sitting in committee of the whole assembly on Wednesday. Of these, four were reported and now stand ready for third and final reading. Progress was reported on three others.

Five others were given second reading and the order for second reading on a fifth was discharged and it was later re-introduced.

Reported for third reading were the amending bills to the Alberta Municipal Assessment Commission; Domestic Animals (Municipalities); Insurance and Income Tax Acts.

PROGRESS REPORTED

Progress was reported on amending bills to the Debt Adjustment Act; the act to provide for the Assessment of Property Liable to Taxation in Towns, Villages, Municipal Districts, Improvement Districts and School Districts; and the Act to Amend the Local Tax Arrears Consolidation Act.

Second reading was postponed on the act to vest in the Crown in the right of the province certain agricultural produce for the relief of the land upon which the same is produced from assessment and taxation and second reading was given to the amending bill to the Bureau of Relief and Public Welfare Act; the School Assessment Act and the Treasury Department Act.

SET UP NEW BOARD

Order for second reading was discharged on the amending bill to the Municipal Hail Insurance Board. This bill was re-introduced later in the afternoon. In explaining its features, Mr. Low said that it set up a new board and gave districts the right to nominate to the board.

One new bill was introduced, an amending bill to the Theatres Act, authorizing the provincial secretary to "in his discretion refuse any application for any license under this Act and may revoke or suspend any license issued pursuant to this Act for any cause prescribed by the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council."

The minister asked for permission to give this bill second reading and the house concurred.

VIOLATION OF HOUSE RULES IS ALLEGED

Charging violation of rules of the house, J. W. Hugill, K.C., Independent, Calgary, rose on a point of privilege on Wednesday objecting to introduction of a bill without the sponsor of the bill filing a copy with the clerk of the house.

Mr. Hugill directed attention to the Municipal Hail Insurance bill, introduced the day before. He said he had inquired at the clerk's office and found "nothing there" of the text. He contended that under Rule 58 of the house no bill could be introduced without a copy of the bill being filed. It was important, he said, for members to know what was in the bill.

Mr. Speaker Peter Dawson declared that the point of privilege was well taken. It was a "failing of all governments," he said, "to introduce bills not in the proper form."

It was pointed out by Hon. Solon E. Low, provincial treasurer, that in closing days of the session, there was nothing unusual about a bill being introduced and then returned to the legislative counsel for final scrutiny prior to being sent to the printer.

Alleged Gaming House Is Raided

Police morality squad, led by Inspector J. J. Shaw, raided an alleged gambling house situated at 10638 97 street shortly before 2 a.m. Thursday, arrested eight men on gaming house charges, and carried off chairs, tables, cards and chips alleged to have been used for gambling purposes.

Bill Osinchuk will appear in police court Thursday morning on a charge of keeping a gaming house, and John [illegible], John [illegible], Gordon Schnider, Andrew [illegible], Mike Kukan, Mike Hicks and Alex Ponich will appear on charges of frequenting.

Inspector Shaw was accompanied by detectives Ed Kinney, Herb Grehan and Val Taylor.

The charge was dismissed when it came out Lang was the "informer." He had telephoned police from the theatre that there was a man inside and to go get him.

interest to us. Formerly the United States seemed to regard the mainland coasts and Panama as the sole points necessary to defend.

"As late as January 31, Admiral Leahy (chief of U.S. naval operations) stated a strategical triangle running from the Aleutians to Hawaii, Samoa and Panama was the defence line. Now Mr. Hull expresses strong opposition to any such theoretical frontier.

"Hence, it appears America is advancing her sphere rapidly westward. Japan cannot but watch with gravest concern."

NON-AGGRESSION

He declined to say whether Japan saw the possibility of collision with United States expansion, and reaffirmed Japan's "attitude remains as before—one of non-aggression."

Declining to say exactly what was the area Japan regarded as under her guardianship, the Admiralty spokesman explained only that: "It is the area necessary to defend from the standpoint of our national security.

"From this viewpoint it is imperative that we maintain command of the western Pacific. However, so long as others do not take a position of menace Japan will not do so either."

Court Refuses Citizenship To Polish Farmer

"It would appear that you would rather make moonshine than work on your farm," stated Mr. Justice A. F. Ewing in supreme court chambers Thursday as he refused the application of a Polish immigrant, resident in the Willingdon district, to become a Canadian citizen.

The accused was convicted and sentenced to three months during the summer of 1937 on a charge of manufacturing illicit spirits. It took considerable questioning by Mrs. Justice Ewing to elicit this information. At the conclusion of the questioning the jurist said, "It took me relatively as long to gain that information as the time you served for the offence."

The applicant denied that he was not working his farm properly, but Mr. Justice Ewing said enquiries in the district did not substantiate that statement.

back trying to carry huge armaments load.

"For the whole of Europe the burden is far too heavy," said Blum, "and the time will come when Europe no longer will be able to ward off the catastrophe.

"Until that time comes, we all have to hold on by artificial means.

"There is nothing to prevent us from profiting by certain experiences of the totalitarian regimes," averred the premier. "The German example is eloquent on this respect. The democracies cannot longer remain in a state of inferiority as compared with the totalitarian countries."

City Engineer A. W. Haddow reported Thursday that the $[illegible] timber bridge over the Capital Hill ravine at 142 street had been completed, and would be open for traffic within a few days. The bridge will be closed again for a short period next month, while asphalt surfacing is laid.

EDMONTONIAN IS WINNER IN BEEF CLASSES

S. H. Morris Captures the Grand Championship With Shorthorn Steer

Grand championship in the beef classes at the Edmonton Spring Show was awarded to S. H. Morris, Edmonton, who exhibited an exceptionally well-finished Shorthorn steer. Reserve ribbon was taken by Donald Henderson, Lacombe, with his Aberdeen Angus calf entry.

Mr. Morris was awarded also the special prize donated by the Canadian Shorthorn Breeders' Association. He placed first and third in the class for beast weighing over 900 but not exceeding 1,050 pounds and third in the class under 900 pounds.

Frank Ballhorn and Sons, Wetaskiwin, won in the class 1,050 and not exceeding 1,200 pounds, this exhibitor taking the class over 1,200 pounds also.

ROBINSON WINS

First prize in the class under 900 pounds was taken by W. L. Robinson, Vermilion, beating out a fellow townsman, W. D. Williams and Son.

In the class for the pen of best five finished steers, heifers or mixed, average weight 1,000 or under, G. B. Cumming, Huxley, took first place with Thomas Henderson, Lacombe, gaining second brackets. Third prize was awarded E. B. Day, Red Deer, and M. Barr, Vermilion, fourth.

In this class for weights over 1,000 pounds owned by one exhibitor, Charles Ellett and Son, South Edmonton, gained the red ribbon with R. A. Vansiyke, Red Deer, second. Third place went to Atkinson Brothers, Fort Saskatchewan.

15 FINISHED ANIMALS

First place in the class for 15 finished animals of an average weight not exceeding 1,100 was taken by Thomas Henderson, Lacombe, with C. E. Wilson, Edmonton, gaining the second place.

In this class for animals exceeding 1,100 pounds average, C. E. Sasons, Clive, was placed first and R. A. Vansiyke, Red Deer, second. Third place went to J. M. Bentley, North Edmonton.

Honors were evenly divided between exhibitors in the Percheron classes with L. O. Crockett, Mayerthorpe, taking the grand championship in the stallion classes with Hivu La Flash, and Vee Bar Vee Ranch, Atlee, taking the grand championship in the mare classes with Crocadon Katisha.

Mitchell and Reith, Edmonton exhibitors, won first prize in the two-year-old stallion class and placed second in the three-year-old class and third in the class for stallions over three years. They also took first place in the mare two-year-old class with Meadow Lawn Ruth 2nd.

YEARLING STALLION

Winner of the yearling stallion class was Stampede's Monogram, owned by Greenway and Clarke, Acme, who also took the three-year-old stallion class with Cardean. The latter horse was named reserve champion of the Percheron class.

In the female classes L. O. Crockett, Mayerthorpe, was a heavy winner, gaining first prizes in the mare yearling class, the three-year-old class and gaining reserve championship ribbon with Hivu Phyllis. This exhibitor also took first place in the two animal class three years and under with Hivu Ruth and Hivu Jeanne, and in the three animal class, three years and under, with Hivu Phyllis, Hivu Jeanne and Hivu Ebony.

Allan C. Leslie cleaned the boards in the grade horse classes taking first and second places in the heavy and light draught horse classes.

The Clydesdale championship was awarded to John Bryden's Sovereign Footprint four-year-old stallion. The Manville exhibitor was also awarded the special donated by the Clydesdale Society of Great Britain and the special given by the Clydesdale Horse Association of Canada.

In the stallion yearling class Western Winalot, from W. McDonald's barn, Edmonton, gained first honors, with W. J. Burns' Stratmore Golden Crown, second and Lawrence Rye's Rydand Marson, third.

DEMONSTRATOR FIRST

Demonstrator from Lawrence M. Rye's stable took first place in the two-year-old stallion class beating out Burntwood Roy exhibited by L. A. Ordze, South Edmonton.

William McCutcheon, Lavoy, took first place in the three-year-old stallion class with Tam Brown, second place going to Dalton Benefactor, owned by J. B. McDonald and Sons, Edmonton.

Lawrence M. Rye, Edmonton exhibitor, captured the major prizes in the female classes taking the yearling mare class with Lady Bridgebank, the mare two-year-old class with Beauty Belle, and the mare over three years, with Prairie Rose.

GRAND CHAMPION

Prairie Rose was named grand champion female Clydesdale of the show, and was also awarded the specials donated by the Clydesdale Horse Society of Great Britain and Canada. In the mare class, three years old, Charles Ellett, Edmonton, won first place.

W. J. Burns, Edmonton, took first place in the two animals, either sex class, two years and under with Stratmore Golden Crown and Briar Rose, while the Rye entry, Beauty Belle and Demonstrator was placed first in the class three years and under.

Greatest Lover Still Pushing Barrel East

MONTREAL, April 7.—Burnest Heard, the "world's greatest lover," who hopes to push himself into the Hollywood spotlight with an empty gasoline drum and a couple of flat tires, reached Montreal Wednesday and plans to push off "in a few days" for Halifax.

Heard, ruffle-haired Vancouver youth, who expects his transcontinental jaunt behind a makeshift "drum-barrow" will give him the publicity he needs to land a film job, has been on the road since June 1, 1937. "And I'll be in Halifax June 1, 1938," he predicts.

Idea of the crude "drum-barrow" is to refute possible accusation that Heard, tall, dark and 23, is hitch-hiking his way to the coast.

BETRAYAL CHARGED

The Times on Thursday announced that once the British government has diplomatically recognized the conquest of Ethiopia, the Italian government will give formal assurance of instant withdrawal of its troops from Spain when the war ends. This is being regarded by the Liberal press as a betrayal of the people and parliament, as Prime Minister Chamberlain gave the Commons reason to believe that withdrawal of Italian troops from Spain would be a specific condition of any Italian agreement and not merely a promise which Mussolini may or may not carry out once the agreement is signed.

One thing is certain. The people of Great Britain do not share Chamberlain's faith in the promises or the intentions of Hitler or Mussolini.

MRS. M. NUTT DIES AT HOME HERE; AGE 63

Well known among old timers of Edmonton and northern Alberta, and resident of this city since 1890 when she came here with her father, the late John F. Grant of an old Hudson's Bay family, Mrs. Marcia Nutt, 65, died at her home Wednesday. Her husband Frank Nutt, who predeceased her some years ago, came to Edmonton in 1876.

Mrs. Nutt's father, John F. Grant was born in old Fort Edmonton, his father being a Hudson's Bay factor here. Sent east for his education as a young man he married while there and Mrs. Nutt came here on his return to Edmonton in 1890. In 1903 she accompanied her husband into the Peace River country over the old wagon trails of those days.

She leaves to mourn her loss four sons and three daughters. The sons are William J. in Edmonton, Dave R. and Charles I. in Meadowview, Alberta, Mrs. Jack McIntyre of Winnipeg and Mrs. Ernie Reckald of High Prairie.

Interment will be made in the Edmonton cemetery with funeral services at the South Side Catholic church on Friday morning at 9:30 a.m. Connolly and McKinley have charge of arrangements.

EASTERN ARCTIC MAIL HEADS FOR LONE OUTPOSTS

CHURCHILL, Man., April 7.—Last mail for the icebound Arctic north of this Hudson's Bay post until next August left Wednesday in charge of Constable Robinson of the Chesterfield detachment of Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

A solitary Eskimo accompanied the constable on the lonely journey by dog-team into the Arctic wastes. The pair will call at posts as far north as Repulse Bay, 700 miles from here.

Robinson's sled, burdened by a load of nearly 1,000 pounds, carried 300 pounds of first-class mail.

Flow ice along the northern coast is approximately four miles wide—twice as wide as last year—and there is no sign of thaw as yet. Seals have not appeared on the flow ice and consequently seal hunting will begin about three weeks later than a year ago.

Canada Publicity Man Is Wanted

OTTAWA, April 7.—Appointment of an official publicity man for Canada in the United Kingdom is provided in an order-in-council passed by the government, it was learned today. The appointment will be announced later.

LEVY ON FARM PRODUCTION IS UNDER DEBATE

"By this method we believe we can get around the legal difficulties," he said.

Stating that the tax on production had been fixed at seven per cent he said that the proceeds would be used for municipal purposes and not one cent would go into the general fund for provincial purposes. There is no such intention on the part of the government, he said.

He agreed that seven per cent might seem a high tax.

But it was to provide for municipal services, including road work, old age pensions, school taxes, relief and other matters. It also would provide for crop insurance and would insure a reserve for the future.

Mr. Maynard contended that by putting this bill into effect, there would be no uncollected taxes and no arrears of taxes and that therefore it would not be "necessary to allow 25 per cent for uncollected taxes."

Turning his attention to the insurance phase of the bill, the Minister declared that it would embrace various kinds of insurance, including insurance against pests.

"We will have to increase or decrease the amount above or below seven per cent in accordance with the amount of insurance desired," he said. "If we refuse the amount of the tax below the seven per cent, we will necessarily have to reduce the insurance benefits."

He urged the house to permit the bill to go through so that the machinery for the new scheme could be made operative.

SUBMIT TO COURTS

He pointed out that there was a provision for submitting the bill to the courts.

"It would be disastrous to have the bill come into operation and change the system of taxation," if it was later found the bill was ultra vires.

"We will submit the bill to the Supreme Court as soon as possible after prorogation to test its validity," he said.

He stated it was the government's intention also, to place the bill before the people of the province so that they could study it and so that their reactions could be obtained.

"It is not our intention to have the bill become operative this year," he said. "After we get the court decision and study the bill in the light of that decision, it is our intention to again submit it to this legislature."

Charles Cockroft, S.C., Stettler, asked Mr. Maynard if the seven per cent tax was inserted in the bill as a result of computations in regard to estimated needs and the minister replied that it was based on levies of municipal districts and other information.

D. M. Duggan, Alberta Conservative leader, expressed sympathy with the idea.

BASIS OF BILL

Basis of the bill, he said, was taxation on income which he supported. The other basis was taxation by capital. He urged that the government provide examples of the how the tax would work so that people could see just what it meant.

John J. Bowlen, Liberal, Calgary launched a strong attack against the bill.

"It is going to raise taxation," he said. "I speak as a farmer. This bill is going to discourage the farmer.

"I think the bill is unconstitutional to begin with. If you are going to provide for protection against hail, drought, grasshoppers and other pests you are going to take more than seven per cent.

"The principle of this bill is bad. It is a vicious bill. If the minister goes to the country and gets the farmers opinions, he will find the people are against it."

DISTRICTS TO BENEFIT

Charles Holder, S.C., St. Albert, asked if a municipal district would benefit from collection on the production in that municipality and was informed "Yes."

Hon. Ernest C. Manning, minister of trade and industry asked Mr. Bowlen if he was speaking for himself or the Liberal party and Mr. Bowlen replied, for himself.

J. R. Unwin, S.C., Edson, in regard to the reference to the supreme court wondered "if the judges are capable of judging the principle of the bill."

J. R. Tremblay, Liberal, Grouard, declared that if the bill was viewed from an industrial point of view it was good, but if viewed from an agricultural point of view, it was bad.

I. M. McCune, S.C., Gleichen, and several others spoke and debate was adjourned to permit Mr. Gray to speak when he returned to the house. He will speak on Thursday.

S. EDMONTON EXHIBITORS WIN PRIZES

Gain First and Second Place In Calf Feeding Competition

South Edmonton exhibitors gained first and second place in the dairy calf feeding competition for exhibitors between 11 and 14 years of age, Matthew Gibb being placed first and Billy Hosford, second. Third in this class was Gordon Wilson, Edmonton, and fourth Glen Stannard, South Edmonton.

In the class for children 15 to 20 years, Louis Guenette, Beverly, was first, with Violet Hosford, South Edmonton, second. Harry Alexandriuk, South Edmonton, took third place and Lloyd Pickard, Wetaskiwin, fourth.

GIBB WINS TROPHY

The Kiwanis Club challenge trophy was awarded to Matthew Gibb, who also took the Lieutenant-Governor's medal and the Hudson's Bay Special. He added the special donated by the Alberta Dairy Supplies, the Ogilvie Flour Mills special and the special donated by the Alberta branch of the Holstein-Friesian Association, to his winnings.

Billy Hosford and Gordon Wilson took second and third prizes offered by the society for the three best calves exhibited.

In the class for the three best calves sired by a registered Holstein-Friesian bull, Louis Guenette took first place with Violet Hosford, South Edmonton, second, and Harry Alexandriuk, South Edmonton, third. The latter took the Hudson's Bay Co. special for the calf standing highest in the calf feeding competition 15 to 20 years.

BROTHER, SISTER WIN

The Alberta Branch, Canadian Ayrshire Association special for the best two calves sired by registered Ayrshire bulls was won by Kenneth Taylor, Noyes Crossing, with Flora Taylor, his sister, getting the second prize.

The Edmonton stockyards district prizes were won by the following:

District 1—Class 1, Muriel Haggith, North Edmonton; Class 2, Archie Blackstock, Edmonton.

District 3—Class 2, Kenneth Edgerton, Huallen.

Report of Social Credit Board for Year Raps Banks

cent per annum, the standard of living would be increased eight times and would yield the average family of four an income of $6,000 a year at existing price levels.

ADVISORS SENT

The report recounted the visit in May, 1937, of Mr. MacLachlan to London when agreement was made with Major C. H. Douglas, British founder of Social Credit, to send two advisors to Alberta to make a preliminary study. The two men sent were G. F. Powell and L. D. Byrne, who reached Edmonton, June, 1937.

A copy of the pledge for unity in obtaining the results was included in the report. The pledge declared the demands for a dividend of $25 a month to all bona fide citizens and a lower cost to live was "physically possible and must therefore be financially possible."

The pledge required the legislature members to uphold the board and its technicians and to avoid provocative utterances and that the pledge would be binding when signed by 60 per cent of the members. (The pledge was signed by a majority of the Social Credit members.)

SAYS PRACTICABLE

The board declared that it was practicable to implement the mandate of:

"(a) Distribution to every adult citizen in the province of a monthly dividend of $25 over and above earnings, if any.

"(b) Arranging for this to be accomplished by a reduction in prices to consumers to the great advantage of all.

"(c) Reducing taxation to less than one half of the present level."

The report added:

"All that stands in the way of the government proceeding to implement the demand for these specified results which the overwhelming majority of the sovereign electorate have made, is the deliberate opposition by the federal government.

"The implications arising from this are serious. Your board seeks the co-operation of the entire assembly to overcome these political obstacles overruling all parties and considerations to the establishment of democracy in our province."

With a view to ascertaining the physical practicability of the payment of dividends, lowered taxation and decreased prices, the board presented the following valuation of the capital assets of the province:—

VALUATION OF ASSETS

"Agricultural lands (developed and undeveloped), $448,000,000.

"Forests, $2,864,000,000.

"Minerals, $222,243,715,000.

"Buildings, harbours, communications, irrigation, developed water power and public works, $756,347,543.

"Capitalized value of the population, $4,446,046,125.

"Net credit balance between province and elsewhere, $45,000,000.

"Total, $230,921,608,659."

The correct statement of the province, said the report, must include the capitalized value of its population in terms of productive capacity.

The assessment had been a careful statement of Alberta's capital assets on a conservative basis, said the report.

CAPITAL RESOURCES

The report added:

"With a population of 772,782, the capital resources of the province averages about $300,000 per person. Assuming that these resources were exploited at the very low rate of one-half of one-half per cent per annum, the present standard of living of the people of Alberta would be increased approximately eight times. This would yield an average income of about $1,500 per person or about $6,000 per family of four at the existing price level.

"While it may be argued that such a high living standard can be secured only by the export out of the province of a very substantial portion of the increased production, in order to obtain the diverse variety of goods for which there would be a demand, this is only partially true.

"The abundant sources of power at the disposal of the province in its natural assets of coal, oil and water power render it ideal for industrial development. Besides, in the main, the majority of the population is in want of the very products which could be supplied from the limited development that has taken place at the present time."

DEBT STAGGERING

The report cited the existence of poverty and declared the debt situation was "staggering." The total provincial, municipal mortgages and private debts amounted to $600,000,000 or about $800 per capita of the population. To this sum had to be added, said the report, the per capita share of the Dominion public debt which brought the figure to about $1,100.

"While this is insignificant beside the corresponding capital resources of the province, it represents a fantastic problem when this debt represents a liability required to be discharged in money, which the present system demands shall be issued as a debt, thus rendering it impossible for the total debt burden to be lessened," said the report.

After recounting activities of the Bureau of Information and the Public Relations Bureau, the report reviewed the "social dynamics lecture course." which embraced growth and development of society, economic progress, democracy, finance, etc.

ADVICE FROM DOUGLAS

The debt moratorium had been continued in conformity with the general advice received from Major Douglas and the technicians of the board until the debt situation could be thoroughly reviewed and definite recommendations made for an equitable debt settlement, said the report.

The board had also recommended, said the report, that taxes on individuals be reduced and the burden be shifted to the institutions. In carrying out the advice of its technicians, the board recommended the removal of the sales tax, which was suspended, and suggested increased bank taxation. This and other legislation, it was reported, was now going before the privy council.

"Acting on the advice of its technicians, your board has recommended that the private debt situation be dealt with in such a manner as to relieve the individual from the strain and burden of having to carry out impossible contracts, at the same time keeping in mind always the question of the payment of obligations on a fair and equitable basis," the report said.

CONTROL CONCENTRIC

The Press Act, also to go before the privy council after being held invalid by the Supreme Court of Canada, had been recommended to ensure accurate information being distributed and "the fact that control of news and control of credit are concentric." The board charged the act had been misrepresented.

Referring to the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, the report said:

"The assembly requested the government to replace the Royal Canadian Mounted Police by a provincial police force. The importance of the people of the province having control of its own police as an essential to establishing democracy in Alberta is so obvious that it does not require elaboration.

"Your board considers, however, that attention should be drawn to the almost sinister implications of the curt refusal of the Dominion government to concur in the request of the assembly for the termination of the R.C.M.P. contract followed, as it was, by a campaign within the province attacking and misrepresenting the motive for establishing provincial police. Your board feels that full account should be taken of this and the people of the province should be informed of the facts.

NO REFLECTIONS

"At the same time your board desires to place on record that it is in no way suggesting there is any reflection upon the integrity or the traditional efficiency of the R.C.M.P. It does in the final analysis, however, emphasize the external control of the police of this province is incompatible with the requirements of a democratic province with sovereign civil rights—considerations which this assembly unquestionably had in mind in requesting a provincial force be established."

Declaring Major Douglas had forecast appointment of the Rowell commission on Dominion-provincial relations, the report said:

"Your board would like to place on record before the legislature a warning that every action which can be taken towards weakening provincial autonomy and centralizing control in the interests of the Bank of Canada will be taken in every sphere of our national life. It is the consistent policy of your board to watch the developments throughout the Dominion and to draw attention of your government to any attempts made to weakening the province and strengthening centralized Dominion control."

Mounties May Be Tourist Greeters

WINDSOR, Ont., April 7. — Red-coated members of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police may act as good-will ambassadors to tourists entering Canada through this port if Federal authorities grant a request embodied in a resolution passed by city council last night. It is felt the Mounties may stimulate tourist traffic.

Fixed Date for Easter Drive Will Be Pressed

LONDON, April 7.—Champions of a fixed date for Easter are planning a big drive to get their idea universally accepted next year.

For 10 years the communications and transit organization of the League of Nations has been custodian of the fixed Easter proposal.

In 1939 Good Friday will fall an April 7—which theologians believe to be the "true anniversary" of the Crucifixion—and Easter on April 9.

Ten years ago parliament passed an Easter act fixing April 9 as the correct date for Easter, but parliament's proposal was conditional on universal acceptance. As next year Easter will fall on that date, British champions of the plan think it ought to be brought into force them, to avoid calendar dislocation.

Easter now can fall on any of the 35 dates from March 22 to April 25. The first Nicene council, in 325, established the date for Easter as the first Sunday after the first full moon after the vernal equinox—March 21.

As Spanish Loyalists Pour Over Frontier Into France

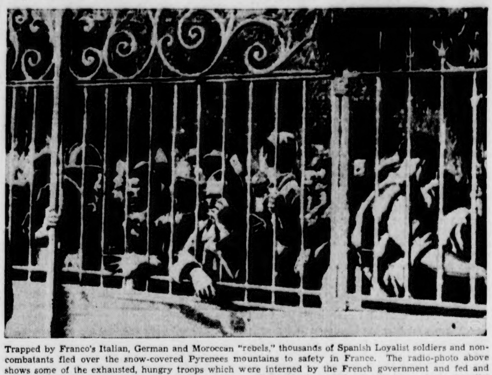
By Radio and Fast Liner — Pictures Of Historic Exodus



Trapped by Franco's Italian, German and Moroccan "rebels," thousands of Spanish Loyalist soldiers and non-combatants fled over the snow-covered Pyrenees mountains to safety in France. The radio-photo above shows some of the exhausted, hungry troops which were interned by the French government and fed and housed, pending a decision as to what to do with them. Refreshed by a night of unbroken rest, the Loyalist troops began to clamor to return to Spain. In the meantime, new contingents were straggling over the mountains.

Thousands of non-combatant refugees from war-torn Spain are struggling over the snowy Pyrenees, seen in the background, to safety in peaceful Europe. This Bulletin photo (rushed across the Atlantic) shows a contingent of them, each with his pitifully small bundle of worldly goods, as they were rounded up by uniformed French mobile guards and escorted to internment camps where they were fed and housed, while the French government pondered what to do with them.

CANCELLATION PRIVATE DEBT IS ADVOCATED creditors would have two years in which to negotiate for and reach a settlement.

FAIR SETTLEMENT

He pointed out that if the creditor did not make a satisfactory settlement, or a fair settlement, then the Debt Adjustment Board would not issue a permit for him to take action against the debtor.

John J. Bowlen, Liberal, Calgary contended that this amendment amounted to confiscation and that "a great many people won't sign any agreement."

It was contended by Gerald O'Connor, Liberal, Edmonton, that he believed in the principle of adjusting debts, but he urged that inclusion of "cancellation" powers in the act was to place it outside the jurisdiction of the legislature.

He declared that the whole act was being risked. He pointed out that in 1940 the Statute of Limitations could be amended with the same effect as was being aimed at in this measure.

In reply to Mr. Bowlen's allegation that this was confiscation, Mr. Maynard stated that the principle of outlawing debts had been operative in the British Empire for centuries. Under the Statute of Limitations in this province, a debt could be outlawed in six years.

Mr. Maynard contended that if the Debt Adjustment Act could be declared illegal because of the cancellation features, then the Statute of Limitations of every province was ultra vires.

Some further discussion took place and then the clause was stood over to determine which statute it would be included in.

ACTOR'S BROTHER TO QUIT COUNTRY OR ENTER PRISON

LOS ANGELES, April 7.—In a dramatic court session, Superior Judge Thomas Ambrose decreed Tuesday that Captain Leopold McLaglen, brother of film actor Victor McLaglen, must leave the United States for five years to escape serving a prison sentence in an extortion case.

The former British army officer, who became a Hollywood physical education instructor, was convicted of trying to extort $20,000 from his former employer, Phillip Chancellor, youthful Beverly Hills millionaire.

While the towering McLaglen bit his lips and braced himself against the counsel table, probationary officers reported they could place him aboard a ship leaving April 26 for Liverpool.

Officer Leaving For Quebec Post

REGINA, April 7. — Superintendent R. R. Tait will leave Regina soon to take over duties in the Quebec division of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police at Montreal headquarters, it was reported here Wednesday.

Veteran of the old provincial police and for the past seven years in charge of the R.C.M.P. criminal investigation bureau in Saskatchewan, Supt. Tait joined what is now the R.C.M.P. at Fort Saskatchewan, Alta., in 1905.

CHILD IS SAVED FROM BURNING BY TEAMSTER

CALGARY, April 7—Clothes aflame, Gertrude Degering, seven-year-old, ran screaming from her home here Wednesday. Her dress had caught fire from the open flame of a gas water heater.

Alone in the house, Gertrude ran to the street, where Bert Osborne, bakery wagon driver, caught her and smothered the flames with his coat. Taken to hospital, the youngster's condition was reported as favorable last night.

Gertrude is the daughter of C. W. Degering, president of the Alberta Council of the Seventh Day Adventists. The family came from Toronto last December.

THE PROVINCE OF ALBERTA
The Industrial Standards Act, 1935
Re: The Structural and Reinforced Steel Industry
Notice Calling a Conference

Upon the petition of the representatives of employees in the Structural and Reinforced Steel Industry:

The Minister hereby convenes a conference of employees and employers engaged in the Structural and Reinforced Steel Industry in a zone consisting of the territory within a ten miles radius from the Main Post Office (North Side) in the City of Edmonton, in the Province of Alberta, such conference to be held in the Edmonton Public School Board Office, Room 518, Civic Block in the City of Edmonton, on Monday, the 11th day of April, 1938, commencing at the hour of 8:00 o'clock in the evening.

The purpose of the conference is the investigation and consideration of the conditions of labour and practices prevailing in the above mentioned industry and the negotiation of standard or uniform rates of wages and hours and days of labour in the said industry in the said zone.

All persons who are employees or employers engaged in the said industry in the said zone are entitled to attend the said conference.

Dated at Edmonton, this 5th day of April, 1938.

ERNEST C. MANNING,
Minister of Trade and Industry.

ATTENDANT AT SAN TELLS HE HURT PATIENT

Testimony Heard Of Alleged Mistreatments In Ontario Institute

GUELPH, Ont., April 7—Roy Holley testified Wednesday at the government-ordered investigation into affairs of Homewood Sanitarium that he pushed Angus McIntosh on to a bed in the sanitarium, then reported the Montreal importer struck him so he would not be fired for striking a patient.

Testimony from Homewood attendants and former attendants about McIntosh, who testified at the opening of the investigation in Toronto last week, occupied the greater part of the session before Commissioner F. H. Barlow.

Testimony also was heard of alleged mistreatment of patients and a beating an attendant gave a patient outside the sanitarium.

SICK OF WORK

Holley left the sanitarium in May, 1935, because he was "sick of the work," he said.

Ernest Gavin told of Hon. Walter Scott, Saskatchewan's first premier who died in Homewood March 23 from a plugged blood vessel, being given alternate hot and cold showers during which he shuddered. Describing Scott as a "very abusive" patient, Gavin said the former provincial premier wanted to stay in the same ward as McIntosh because he felt McIntosh was of great assistance to him.

"I thought on different occasions Hon. Walter Scott should not have been given a shower . . . with the heart condition he had," Gavin said.

The witness' brother, William Gavin, testified he was discharged from Homewood as "not suitable" not long after he failed to comply with an order from Mr. Stuart, a supervisor, to make his reports, "a little stronger."

COUNSEL PROTESTS

R. S. Robertson, counsel for the sanitarium, protested against the impression his dismissal was the result of this. Gavin said the ward where he worked was "not very clean," that there were cockroaches and mice and the sheets were "not very clean."

First witness at the opening of the three-day sitting here, William Holliday, a farmer living 300 yards from Homewood, and his housekeeper testified to a patient being beaten on the road by an attendant they knew only as "the big Swede."

Holliday testified he forced the attendant to stop "pounding" the patient by threatening him with a hoe and calling police.

CHAMPION CALF SOLD FOR $50 PER HUNDRED

Besides winning a hat full of prize money with his championship calf, young Donald Henderson, Lacombe, toppled the sales of the finished cattle on Wednesday afternoon when the T. Eaton Co. Western Ltd., paid $50 a hundredweight for his Aberdeen Angus heifer. Next best price in the show was $25 a hundredweight paid by the same firm for S. H. Morris' grand championship Shorthorn.

Prices ranged well above current market quotations and bidding was brisk as local packing houses, brokers and butchers sought to gain the specially fattened cattle for the Easter trade.

Weiller and Williams, Swift Canadian Co., P. Burns Company and Canada Packers Ltd. were heavy buyers, with many local butchers paying considerably over current market prices for offerings. Several purchases were made for butchers from out-of-town points.

Among the heaviest purchasers of fat cattle at the show sales were Claude Campbell Commission Co., Ltd., O. A. Brown Ltd., and Gainers Ltd., the Edmonton-owned packing plant being particularly active in picking up high grade animals.

Students Call It Strike: Principal Says Lockout

WINNIPEG, April 7.—Twenty students remained away from King Edward public school several hours, claiming they were on "strike" against substitution of a class of mathematics for the music period. But Principal A. F. Goodridge said it was a "lockout."

The principal said the boys were disobedient as he refused to let them return until they brought "notes" from their parents. He did not explain their disobedience.

In any case, the students returned to school Wednesday with letters from their parents, regretting the incident, and they were allowed to resume their lessons.

COAST OFFICER PLEADS NAVY FOR WAR NEED

Col. H. F. G. Letson Declares Invasion Of B.C. Will Be Water-Borne

VANCOUVER, April 7—Col. H. F. G. Letson, officer commanding 14th Infantry Brigade in Vancouver, told the board of trade today there "never was a time of greater urgency" for calm consideration of national defence.

Col. Letson said "invasion of British Columbia must be water borne" because the United States would not permit a base for any land attack to be established on American territory.

" . . . It is against our shipping, dockyards, harbors, coastal cities and rail communications that we can most probably expect enemy action."

He said Canada "must have a naval force capable of dealing with any enemy force that may be expected to attack this coast, adequate air force for purposes of reconnaissance and for direct action against the enemy, and land defences, coast and anti-aircraft artillery and searchlights, placed to command the approach to vital areas.

Finally she required a land force to man the guns, protect her bases and maintain her landward defence.

The Royal Canadian Navy was "obviously not adequate without support," Col. Letson said. The Royal Canadian Air Force, "numbering 1,000 men with a non-permanent branch of about 500," was well trained but "entirely lacking in modern machines."

Man Killed In Highway Crash

VANCOUVER, April 7.—One person was killed last night and two others injured when the light coupe in which they were riding collided head-on with a parked lumber carrier.

George Little, 26-year-old longshoreman, died less than an hour after being admitted to hospital suffering a fractured skull.

Marjorie Wilson, 27, suffered fractured ribs, a fractured hand and lacerations, and B. W. Young, whom police said was driving the coupe, escaped with shock and bruises.

Pope Pius XI is an enthusiastic motorist. He owns five motor cars and likes to be driven at a speed of about 40 miles an hour.

Woman Given Damages For Scalp Harm

CALGARY, April 7.—Judge W. A. Macdonald knows all about permanent wave machines today. Operations of such machines were described to him in detail and he awarded Mrs. Loretta Belle of Calgary damages of $20. She claimed her hair and scalp had been injured while obtaining a permanent wave in a Calgary beauty parlor.

Snow Melts On New Sown Crop

MILK RIVER, Alta., April 7.—Harold and Howard Hierash were happy today. A few days before last week's record blizzard they planted 100 acres of grain. Today the huge snow drifts were melting, providing ample moisture for the newly-sown crop.

How To Get The Money

Saltcoats, Saskatchewan, reports that two-thirds of the money called for by this year's tax levy is already in the town treasury. The town council offered a discount of ten per cent on taxes paid during the first three months of the year. The taxpayers did the rest.

Saltcoats, by the way, is in borderline territory which has been more or less affected by drought conditions in recent years, and tax-money can be none too plentiful there. The two-thirds already paid may represent all the taxes likely to be paid unless crops are good in the district next summer. If so, council has the prospective proceeds now in hand, can foresee the probable shortage and govern its spending accordingly.

The moral for Edmonton's council is plain, if by no means new. A schedule of graduated discounts, making it worth while for taxpayers to pay more than the periodic instalments, would bring in money in advance, simplify financing, and enable council to judge whether there is likely to be a deficit at the end of the year. A dollar in the treasury is worth two in prospect in these times.

Up To The Creditor

The proposal to make a horizontal slash of fifty per cent in the principal of private debts in Alberta has been postponed; it may be done at next session of the legislature "if necessary".

Meantime, the Debt Adjustment Act is being amended, and if the amendments are allowed by the courts and work well in practice, the slash will not be "necessary". The effect of the amendments is that after July 1st, 1940, debts incurred before July 1st, 1936, will not be collectable by process of law;

Unless the debtor has in the meantime signed a new agreement to pay, or unless action to collect has been started. But there is a "joker" in the latter proviso. Action cannot be started unless the Debt Adjustment Board gives consent.

The initiative is thus passed to the creditor. Unless he secures a settlement by the Board, or persuades the debtor to sign a new agreement, the debt may be outlawed in total two years hence. It isn't the debtor who will have to do the worrying from this on. All he has to do is sit tight, sign nothing, and wait for the Debt Adjustment Board to tell him what he must pay—or until July 1st, 1940, rolls around.

Still Going Strong

If the members of the legislature raised their pay, it is to be said they are showing no niggardliness about the amount of time they spend on the job, and there is no fault to be found with the bulk output of legislation. They have now rounded out eight weeks in session and started on the ninth, with fairly strong prospect that they may linger well into the tenth. In fact the longer they stay the less imminent prorogation appears to be. A week ago they were supposed to be waiting only for the report of the Social Credit Board.

Up until Tuesday 108 bills had been introduced and a new batch was arriving daily. There have been some prolific sessions in days gone by, but the present one must have set a production record long ago. Complaint used to be made that former legislatures turned out too many laws; even the lawyers couldn't keep track of them. Apparently the legalmen are too busy now tabulating the new enactments to have time for complaints. The proverbial "statute book" threatens to take on the proportions of an encyclopaedia.

Nor can it be said the late bills were only time-killers brought in to keep the order-paper filled and the session alive until the long-awaited report made its appearance. The late-comers include such important measures as the Production Tax bill, the Debt Adjustment Act amendments, and a bill to stop oil wells wasting gas.

If the report presented yesterday should invite contention, there are no signs that weariness will prevent the members falling upon it, and each other, with right good will. That considered, it is doubtful if they will make tracks for home until the ice goes out of the river.

Campaign Funds

When early in the present session of parliament Mr. Bennett said that electoral corruption was widespread in Canada, he "started something". Maybe it would have started anyway; it should have started long ago. In any case, the response of Prime Minister King is a bill dealing with contributions to political parties and election campaign expenses. If parliament—including Mr. Bennett and his associates—approves, there will hereafter be no such thing as secret contributions to campaign funds. There will also be a limit to campaign expenses in any constituency. And deposit slips and cheque stubs to show who made the contributions and who got money from the funds. There will be an official also, to see that the law is enforced and the system made to work.

No one needs to be told that this is a revolutionary proposal. And among members of the Liberal and Conservative parties there must be a pretty general feeling that the revolution should have occurred long since. These parties have been subjected to severe criticism on the ground that they accepted campaign contributions from unknown sources — in some cases from parties who expected a return favor in the way of a tariff boost or a contract. Neither party can claim that the criticism has always been undeserved, or that heavy contributors have not been rewarded. The bill, if passed as drawn, will free them from such accusations, and their members from embarrassment. They should welcome the change.

Political campaigns cannot be run without money. The plan embodied in this bill is that the money shall be raised by open and above-board contributions, and spent openly and under official supervision. That will discourage large contributions from parties with private ends to gain. Which means that the rank and file will have to contribute to support their parties—as they now contribute to support service clubs, community leagues and other voluntary associations carried on for other, but no more praiseworthy, purposes. And why shouldn't they?

Foreign oil companies are appealing to the Supreme Court of Mexico, on the ground that the Government violated the constitution when it seized their oil wells. If that is the best claim they can think of, the chance of getting the wells back or getting paid for them is not very good. If Mexican governments had paid any attention to the elaborate and excellently framed constitution, that would have been one of the best governed countries in the world for the last forty years.

Lean Or Fat

In accusing fat men of laziness Dr. Leonard Williams runs counter to the opinion of another eminent medical authority, Dr. Berthold, who has declared that "embonpoint is one of the greatest benefits that Providence can confer on man, and with obesity comes perseverance, virtue and contentment." Berthold cited some notable examples: Napoleon, who developed a "corporation" at thirty; Mirabeau, "as fat as a fat monk"; Balzac and Dumas, prodigies of energy who were also mountains of flesh; and Gambetta, who, in spite of his obesity, retained mental and physical vigor until his death.—Manchester Guardian.

"No Isolation"

There will be no great war if Britain, France and the United States can prevent it, but if it is forced upon them no part of the British Empire can stand aloof and be safe. To assert that under no circumstances should Canada have any part in any war beyond her borders may appeal to some people, but why not be content to say that Canada will determine her policy when she knows definitely all that may be involved in so momentous a decision? It is conceivable that a situation might arise which would compel Canada to fight in a war that would disregard boundaries. We all pray that such a condition will never arise, but in a general war involving the British Empire there could be no isolation and it is not the part of wisdom to think otherwise. —Saint John Telegraph Journal.

Well Worth Imitating

A Toronto minister has been commenting on the reduced number of children's funerals he has conducted of recent years. As a matter of fact, the reduction in the number of deaths of children under ten years old has been startling. The figures for the five-year period 1923-27 compare with those of 1933-37 as follows:

	Deaths All Ages.	Deaths Under 10.	Per cent of Total.
1923-27	29,925	6,424	21.5
1933-37	33,737	4,160	12.3

From 1927 to 1937 the population increased 82,000, but the deaths of children under ten in the five-year periods ending with those years decreased by 2,264. It is a fine record.—Toronto Star.

Beauty A Handicap?

It has become more or less a fixed part of the American business credo that the ablest office help consists of extremely plain, and preferably rather dowdy, women. This theory probably was started by some poltroon of a husband who in his sneaking, cowardly fashion was afraid to have a good-looking woman around his office.

At great risk, and with considerable trepidation, may we suggest that the time-honored theory probably is false? Actually, in business the handsome woman is sometimes handicapped. The other women have been known to say catty things about such a person, and the bosses often believe, foolishly, that no one so pretty could possibly have any sense.

A few forthright men, notably in Wall Street (what stunning stenographers roamed through those canyons at lunch hour during the boom years!) have demonstrated that a certain amount of beauty, within reason, is a fine thing to have around.—New York Herald-Tribune.

Unemployment Insurance

Canada should have a scheme of unemployed insurance as soon as possible. It should be on a contributory basis. It will not be a cure-all for the country's ills but it will be a step toward making methodical provision to ease off the hardships and difficulties of periods when employment is low. It will be a sort of shock absorber in bad times. A guess would be that the Dominion, by extending some of its present machinery, could handle the system cheaper than by each province setting up its own organization. It may be that it will be necessary to leave some provinces out if they do not wish to come in but such a situation should not make it impossible for the Dominion to co-operate with the provinces that are willing to co-operate. But a national system taking in the whole country would be best. It might start with such employments and industries that more easily lend themselves to organization for unemployment insurance purposes. With experience gained it would then be possible to extend the plan into other fields.—Regina Leader-Post.

What Government Means These Days

Stark realities deal hardly with "laissez faire" theories.

There is that bill before Parliament to provide seed grain for Western drought sufferers. In Alberta and Saskatchewan thousands of farmers have not had a crop in six years. On relief, their cattle sold or dead, they have no money to buy seed, no credit upon which to borrow. In such circumstances, what is the Government to do? Its only course, as a national Government, is to do what it is doing: guarantee loans to the farmers thus stricken. To give them one more chance. Thus guarantees, with the public treasury behind them, total up to $15,000,000.

"Laissez faire" would hold such loans should not be made. Its doctrine, in the last analysis, is the survival of the fittest. Yet what would happen in this country today if, under such a philosophy, with a program of severe deflation, Governments began withholding or withdrawing all aid from those in need of it? Suppose, for example, the Dominion Government came out and said that after a certain date there would be no more old age pensions, no more war pensions, no more grants to social services. Suppose that, at the same time, Provincial Governments announced no more money for health, or hospitals, no more for mother's allowances, no more for workmen's compensation, and so on and so forth. What would happen?

Well, we might have balanced budgets—for a time. But only for a time. Financial hardship, the crippling of purchasing power, the throwing of tens of thousands into destitution—these things would smash our whole social and political structure, bring inevitable disaster.

Here we have the folly, the superficial thinking, of those people who, disregarding things as they are, or ignorant of things as they are, keep harping for a "balanced budget." Balancing a budget, in itself, is one of the simplest things imaginable. Mr. Dunning could do it tomorrow with a few simple strokes of a pencil. And anybody else could. But what the shouters for a balanced budget overlook are the consequences; the fact that to start balancing a budget in these days would be to start unbalancing our whole social and economic fabric.

No one likes high taxation. All of us should be against extravagance. But it is one thing to be against high taxes and extravagance, another thing to believe that it is better to have a wide section of our people suffer hunger and starvation than to have a smaller section suffer the inconvenience of high taxes. After all, come to think of it, the highest-taxed well-to-do or rich citizen of Canada today is infinitely better off than the scores of thousands who, in our cities and on Western farms, have to look to government for assistance.—Ottawa Journal.

Mr. Montagu Norman, governor of the Bank of England, continues to travel incognito and be discovered by the first reporter who sees him. He might as well carry a banner as his particular beard.—Toronto Globe and Mail.

"It is a matter of simple common sense for nations which desire peace to co-operate in every satisfactory and practical way toward maintaining peace."—Cordell Hull.

Your Health

By DR. FRANK McCOY

Many people enjoy eating fresh fruit before bedtime and find that this practice improves the intestinal elimination. The action of the cellulose and mild fruit acids encourages the peristalic activity in a stimulating way which is beneficial.

However, this habit is most likely to succeed in cases of atonic constipation, in which the colon is relaxed and lazy. It is not so likely to succeed in cases of spastic constipation in which parts of the colon are narrowed, tightened up, and irritable.

In many foreign countries it is customary to use six or eight meals during the day, and although I do not advocate overeating, it seems that these people do well, providing the meals are not too large or heavy. Those wishing to adopt a similar schedule of eating will find that whenever more than three meals a day are used, it is a good plan to make the bedtime meal of fruit.

The average meal leaves the stomach in about four hours, and for this reason all heavy meals should be spaced at least four or five hours apart. Fruit or fruit juices, when used alone, leave the stomach more rapidly. For this reason, when a patient is on a fruit juice diet it is advisable to take the feedings at intervals of every two hours.

Those who become hungry between meals or at night may use one kind of fresh fruit with benefit. This is much better than filling up on sweets. When the fresh fruits are in season, they may be taken and cherries, apricots, peaches, and others may be used. However, during the early spring period the available fruits are limited as to variety and oranges and apples are practically the only fresh ones available. These may be used, or orange juice, tomato juice or pineapple juice may be substituted for the whole fruits. When using the juice before bedtime it is a good plan to make this a real fruit juice feeding, using at least eight ounces of the kind of juice preferred.

However, in those having a tendency toward irritability of the bladder, so much liquid being taken just before retiring may have the undesirable effect of causing it to be necessary to awaken during the night to empty the bladder. In such cases, the whole fruit may be used instead.

It is my belief that although fruit is a very valuable food, it is best taken by itself and not with a meal containing heavier foods, particularly starches. I do not find that the acid of the fruit combines well with the starches of an ordinary mixed meal and feel that if you wish to get the greatest amount of good from your fruit eating, it is advisable to take the fruit by itself.

When using fruit before bedtime, try to space it so that the fruit is not taken any sooner than three or four hours after the dinner meal. In this way you will get all of the healthful effect of the fruit without interfering with the digestion of the preceding meal.

Those who are bothered by the problem of what to use for lunch will find that fruit may be taken occasionally as the entire luncheon meal with good effect. Use whatever amount is desired of the fruit as a substitute for the ordinary lunch. As the fruit will leave the stomach fairly rapidly you will probably get hungry a little later on, when it is all right to use a little more of the fruit.

If you are hungry before going to bed, get into the habit of helping yourself to fruit or fruit juice. This is a good health habit, if you will follow the instructions which I have outlined.

Questions And Answers

QUESTION: Albert E. wants to know: "Please be so kind as to outline the treatment ordinarily suggested for a benign papilloma of the urinary bladder. Also, what kind of growth is this?"

ANSWER: A papilloma refers to an epithelial tumor. The term benign as applied to a tumor means that it is not malignant. The treatment most frequently recommended for a benign papilloma of the bladder is the high frequency spark. With this method, almost all of the small growths and some of the larger ones may be successfully removed.

QUESTION: J. F. N. wants to know: "What is your opinion of psyllium seed? A friend of mine recommends it highly as a means of relief for constipation."

ANSWER: Psyllium seed is frequently used by those desiring a mild action in the relief of intestinal sluggishness. It is effective because it lubricates the intestinal tract by its mucilaginous character. Occasionally, psyllium seed will cause "packing" in the intestines and must then be discontinued. However, it is certainly less irritating than many of the common laxatives.

QUESTION: Barbara D. writes: "I have a cramping effect in one foot. What could be the cause?"

ANSWER: The most common cause is the wearing of poorly-fitted shoes. However, the same symptom may result from too much exercise; poor circulation; arch trouble; and (in older patients) from hardening of the arteries which likewise produces an interference with the circulation.

Old Country Letter

By J. E. NORCROSS

LONDON, Eng.—(By Mail.) — A few days after this letter is despatched a fine old gentleman—he is 88 years of age—will call at Kensington Palace bringing with him a birthday present for his sister who will then be 90.

Canada knows them both well, the Duke of Connaught and Princess Louise, the one a former governor-general, the other the widow of another governor-general, at that time the Marquis of Lorne.

J. E. Norcross

Princess Louise is the elder of the two surviving daughters of Queen Victoria; the Duke is the only surviving son. Princess Louise was the first princess of blood royal to marry outside the royal circles in several generations. Queen Victoria is said to have consented most reluctantly to her betrothal to the son and heir of the Duke of Argyl. The marriage set the precedent for those of King George VI and the Duke of Gloucester.

It is just about 50 years since the lovely princess, most beautiful of the old queen's daughters, landed in Canada bringing with her her sketching and painting materials for she was an accomplished artist. It is not generally known, or, rather it is largely forgotten, that the statue of Queen Victoria in Kensington Gardens is her work.

The most unconventional member of the royal family in that period, as elderly Canadians will recall, her democratic gestures delighted the Dominion. The gruff Carlyle, by the way, counted her among the few women, living or dead, whom he admired.

"Uncommonly pretty, and clever too," he growled.

THE estate of the late Mr. Ramsay MacDonald has been valued at approximately $127,000, the savings of a lifetime spent in the service of the public, in his latter years as prime minister in four governments. Each of his children will receive about $20,000.

Apart from personal bequests, Mr. MacDonald left $1250 to the Margaret MacDonald and Mary Middleton baby clinic, $250 to the Children's hospital at Harpenden for a cot bearing his name, and $100 each to the maidservants who had been three years in his service.

He directed that his children should give any of his books as mementoes to his friends. Mr. Malcolm MacDonald becomes his literary executor.

On This Date

A Day in Canadian History

By FRED WILLIAMS

Seventy years ago today—on April 7, 1868—tragedy struck the then young and very small capital of Canada. Hon. Thomas D'Arcy McGee was assassinated as he was on his way home from the House of Commons in Ottawa. The Canadian Confederation less than a year old, was baptized in the blood of one of its fathers.

This great Irish patriot, who had become a Canadian in soul and thought, who had done much to bring the Irish Catholics of Canada to accept Confederation, was killed because he would not betray his new loyalty. He had only lived in Canada 10 years, arriving at Montreal in 1857, but within a year he was elected to the Assembly for Montreal, at once becoming a leader in debate and within four years becoming a minister. First he was a Reformer under John Sandfield Macdonald, but he was ambitious for his new country and saw that John A. Macdonald was the more progressive even if labelled Conservative.

McGee attended both the Charlottetown and Quebec conferences and eloquently supported the resolutions in the Confederation debates in the Assembly, preaching tolerance, urging national unity and predicting in vivid words the development of the West and our growth into an independent nation within the British Empire. When the first Dominion cabinet was in formation, it was taken for granted that D'Arcy McGee would be the Irish Catholic minister; but he came from Quebec; that province already had its quota, and so McGee stood aside in favor of an Irish Catholic from Nova Scotia; but he was nontheless one of Sir John Macdonald's closest advisers, perhaps more so than some of the ministers within the Privy Council. He had planned to retire from politics and devote his life—he was only 43—to literature; but instead he became the Dominion's first political martyr.

After his murder it was related that not only had Mr. McGee had many threats and warnings that his life was "forfeit as a traitor to the Irish cause," but he himself had two or three dreams which worried him exceedingly. One was that he fell into the abyss at Niagara Falls and was swept to his death. This, only a few days before his murder, caused him much worry, for, like most Celts, he was inclined to the mystic, and he mentioned this dream as if it had been a warning. But he was marked for death and lay in the April snow at Ottawa for some hours before his body was found.

His assassin (or perhaps it would be better to say the man convicted of the murder), one P. J. Whelan, was hanged at Ottawa the next year, in the last public execution in Ontario. He died unshriven and hated, while D'Arcy McGee was given the tribute of a national funeral and the tears of a whole country.

Gambling

Editor, Bulletin: In view of the present publicity given to lotteries and various forms of gambling, it is gratifying to know that such will not be given any official sanction in Alberta so long as a great number of people are in favor of Social Credit as the spirit of gambling and the principles of Social Credit are absolutely opposed to each other. Some people attempt to justify gambling by saying "All life is a gamble"; but such people are in error. Life does present many risks or hazards. However the result of a gamble is, on a wager alone, the transference of money or property from one possesser to another with nothing of value having been produced or created. But, when by taking a risk, a gain is made, it is made on a principle, or something has been contributed to life and the community in value. E.G., a farmer takes a risk in trying to grow a crop; but when he is successful, value in the form of food has been produced. One of the promises of the Social Credit doctrine as explained in Alberta, is to take even the risk out of business life in so far as it is possible to do so (e.g., the "just price" and the protection to those suffering unfortunate crop losses, etc.). The slogan of Social Credit is "A square deal for all"; whereas the creed of the gambler is to get all you can without giving anything of value in return. Thus one who gambles cannot believe in Social Credit.

"Because they saw he had been robbed already," suggested little Tommy.

SPRING SHOW TO CONCLUDE THIS EVENING

Tom Ward, Calgary, Wins Challenge Cup for Best Hunter In Show

The most successful spring show in the recent history of the Edmonton Exhibition Association will conclude with a special gymkhana program Thursday evening which will include many novelty events, and in which horsemen and horse women from all over Alberta will participate.

Wednesday evening's arena show was the most spectacular of the presentations since the show opened, and more than 2,000 spectators generously applauded the contestants in each event.

Tom Ward, well-known Calgary horseman, was given a great ovation when he won the W. E. Pixley challenge cup for the best hunter in show ridden by owner. Mounted on Dandy Mack the Calgary owner went over the difficult 10 jump course with but a slight fault. The cup was presented by Miss Willa Sandison.

TRIXIE MAKES HIT

In this event Trixie, owned by Hill Brothers, Edmonton, made a hit with the crowd as the comedienne of the show.

Seeing some of the jumps in this difficult course for the first time, Trixie took her own time in getting round the course, and calmly went up to the new type barriers and gave them a thorough inspection before chancing the jump. At the end of the inspection she cocked her ears and promptly negotiated the fence without fault. She put the audience into gales of laughter when she scrambled over the final fence. Trixie did not like this fence at all, and instead of jumping it, she simply climbed it as a person would climb a flight of stairs.

Miss Audrey Gardner, Pirmez Creek, Calgary, took first place in the saddle class, exceeding 15.2 hands, with Harbor Lights, Miss Ruth Stevenson, Edmonton, placing second with Silver Whittier. Miss Baxter's Casa Baywood got third place in this event.

SADDLE CHAMPION

Saddle championship of the show was won by Miss Gardner's Silk Socks, with Mrs. Gordon Logie getting the reserve ribbon with Manx Pierette.

Teamed with her sister, Miss Joan Gardner, the Calgary horsewoman took first place in the jumping pairs, the sisters giving a sterling display to win the ribbon from Tom Ward's entry.

The latter exhibitor took first place in the heavyweight hunter class with Dandy Mack, with Don of Westlock, owned by W. H. Sherman, Edmonton, second, and Mrs. E. H. Newland's Huntsman, third. Mr. Ward was also the successful competitor in the open jump class taking first and second in this event with Prince and Dandy Mack. Trixie, owned by Hill Brothers, was third.

Mrs. Gordon Logie's Manx Pierette took first place in the saddle class, 14 hands and not exceeding 15 hands, also winning the Mikana Saddle Club silver cup, Mrs. "Wop" May's Dumb Dora being second and Miss Helen Ramsay's Litago, third.

BEST GIRL RIDER

Little Lois Mary Burns, Edmonton, was judged the best girl rider under 12 years, with Yvonne Field, Llanarthney School, second; Jean Potter, Winterburn, third and Jackie Ireland, Edmonton Riding Academy, fourth.

In the high steppers class three-year-olds and over, Mary Jane, shown by Miss Margaret Gemmell, Edmonton Riding Academy, took first place, beating Princess from the Jack Burns' Edmonton stable. Princess reversed the decision in the carriage championship class to take the blue ribbon, the Riding Academy horse getting the reserve ribbon. Miss Gemmell also took the first place in the pair of high-steppers.

In the delivery teams class Pete and Colonel from the Northern Alberta Dairy Pool barns took first place with teams from the Woodland Dairy Company stables filling second and third slots, while in the four-horse teams Allan C. Leslie, Watrous, Sask., gained first place after a great struggle with the entry from the Burns and Rye stable.

Mr. Leslie was given the decision in a six horse driving competition over Bobby Burns, Edmonton. This event was extremely popular with the large audience.

Woman Given Life In Prison, Child Slayings

CENTRE, Texas, April 7.—Mrs. Lille May Curtis, who killed six of her nine children as they slept, was sentenced to 495 years in the penitentiary in her trial Wednesday on five of the six murder counts. She was given a 99-year sentence in each case. One case was left hanging. A five-year suspended sentence for killing her husband in a similar manner three years ago was ordered continued. The children, ranging from five to 13 years old, were killed, she said, because she could not provide for them.

Japs Reported To Be Racing Away From Taierchwang

SHANGHAI, April 7. — The Kwangsi military chieftain General Li Tsung-Jen reported today that Japanese were "in full retreat" from Taierchwang, the Shantung province village whose mud walls have been flattened by nearly three weeks of battle north of the Grand ca

Easter Cruise

BY MARION WHITE

Whatever happened, it was instantaneous. . . . At any rate, in his attempt to steady her, he caught her elbow instead and shoved it, violently. . . . Too late Joyce cried out.

CHAPTER I

JOYCE moved one of the suitcases aside and sat down on the narrow berth to read the letter from Aunt Martha. She glanced at the envelope a second time, just to assure herself that it belonged to her. There was no doubt that it came from Aunt Martha; one could never mistake that fine, precise handwriting, even were there no Fall River postmark. The surprising fact was that it should be addressed to her, in such a way. The words danced before her eyes:

Miss Joyce Milner
S. S. EMPRESS
Pier 82 North River
New York City.

And then, down in the lower left-hand corner: "Sailing Saturday, April 9."

It was altogether true. She was here on the Empress, in her own cabin; the steward had already picked up her ticket, and in about 15 minutes she would be on her way. To the magical islands of the south on her Easter cruise!

She turned the envelope over and tore it open.

A blue slip fell to the floor. It was a money order for $25.

She put the money order and the letter back into the envelope and slipped it into her pocketbook. For just one fleeting instant, she was sorry that she was going. She might have spent a few weeks up in Fall River with her aunt and uncle, the only two relatives she had in the world, instead of embarking on this wild adventure.

But it was more than that. If the blood of two centuries of seafaring ancestors runs in your veins, if you're a stenographer in a tiny little office overlooking the river, where you can see gallant, majestic ships sail out to sea every ten minutes of the day, and if you've never been on anything bigger than a ferryboat in the entire 25 years of your life—well, then it's time to go. Even though it does take our last dollar, and you have no job when you come back.

Of course, she wasn't going to spend every cent she had. She was sure about that. In her bag there were still six crisp $20 bills. And now this money order. The tickets for every shore excursion were bought. Suppose she spent $50 on bingle-bangles, as Aunt Martha called them, she would still return with almost $100. That would take care of her for five or six weeks, if she were frugal, and in that time she could find half a dozen new jobs.

Through the din of last-minute goodbys which echoed through the ship's corridors, she heard the whistle. Ten minutes to sailing. Cabin boys called out their final warning, to the beat of musical gongs: "All ashore that's going ashore! All ashore! Last call . . ."

She stood at the rail, watching last-minute passengers clamor aboard. Behind her, two cameramen took final shots of celebrities sailing: a tall, striking girl in a white fox cape, a honeymoon couple with rice still spilling from their clothes . . .

Now a man was picking his way up the gangplank, slowly and unsteadily, and close behind him a woman followed, glaring angrily at his broad back, and prodding him on. The man was round and pudgy, and his face gleamed like a summer sunset. He had difficulty in placing his feet in the proper grooves, and for every one step forward he stumbled back two. But he was not concerned; in fact, he was enjoying himself no less than those who watched him.

Repeatedly the woman shoved him on, but with little success Now her face was white in anger, and Joyce wondered curiously what she would say to him when she got him alone. She was an attractive, imperious woman, wrapped up luxuriously in a dark mink coat, with a corsage of orchids on her shoulder and the glitter of jewels at her throat. She carried an expensive overnight case of alligator, and she used this viciously to prod her erring husband on his way.

"Coming, my love . . . coming. . . . F'Heaven's sake, stop poking me!"

Now the ship's final whistle sounded, and as the moment of sailing drew near, two husky sailors proceeded cautiously down the gangplank to aid the gentleman. One on each side of him, they eased him aboard, guided his steps toward the salon. As they passed in front of Joyce, the exuberant gentleman looked up and met her eyes. He straightened momentarily. "Lo, Beautiful!" he offered with faltering but genuine enthusiasm.

Joyce turned aside, but not before she felt the woman's cold eyes glaring at her.

Slowly but surely the big ship backed out of her dock, and the last farewells from ship to shore grew a little more shrill, a little more tense.

"Goodby, mother. . . . Goodby, Joe . . . goodby . . . goodby . . ."

And shortly those on shore melted into no more than a waving mass of white handkerchiefs and faint voices, and the river moved the two little worlds farther and farther apart. Midstream the ship hesitated, turned her bow slowly toward the lower bay, and headed out into the open, endless Atlantic.

The late afternoon air was cool, and as they left the shelter of the harbor a stiff wind came up, whistling around the decks and sweeping before it all evidence of the gay moments before sailing. Confetti streamers and corsage wrappings were whipped into tangled snarls and lifted high over the railings; doors were slammed swiftly shut and deck chairs were slid about before the busy stewards could fold and tie them down for the night. As soon as the sky-line of Manhattan began to fade on the horizon, passengers took quick refuge in their staterooms.

But Joyce remained on deck, fascinated. Not one moment of this would she miss. Alone, she stood at the rail, staring toward the sea, challenging the wind. There would be plenty of time to enjoy her cabin.

A steward, fastening the last deck chair securely, looked over at Joyce.

"Better get below, Miss," he advised. "It's blowing up pretty hard."

She pushed herself back from the rail. "I'm going right in," she promised. "Just one walk around the deck." She pulled her hat down, buttoned her coat closer.

Up she went with the bow of the ship, hesitating with it for an instant as they rode the crest of a wave, then she stepped forward to turn a corner.

She stepped forward, but she did not turn the corner. In that split second, another lone passenger, speeded by the force of the wind, came toward her, and as the next wave struck, they collided. Joyce, being the less heavy of the two, slipped backward, and the young man put out a quick hand to catch her.

Whatever happened, it was instantaneous. Perhaps the young man was over-eager in his helpfulness; perhaps another lurch of the ship pushed his arm. At any rate, in his attempt to steady her, he caught her elbow instead, and shoved it, violently.

Too late Joyce cried out. She stood there, wide-eyed and dumbfounded, and watched her pocketbook, forced out of her arm by the sudden contact, fly over the rail of the ship and down into the sea . . .

When she could get her breath, she turned on the equally dumbfounded young man.

"You clumsy clown!" she accused through tight lips. But she did not look at him; she was at the rail, staring at the spot where the bag was disappearing.

"I'm sorry. I'm terribly sorry, truly I am." His words rang with sincerity. "I had no idea anybody would be coming round this corner . . ."

"But my pocketbook. It's gone!" Her voice rose tragically.

The young man looked at the black, surging waters. "It's gone, all right," he conceded. "I hope there was nothing in it . . ."

"Nothing in it?" she cried wildly. "Everything was in it! My lipstick, my compact—" Woman-like, she enumerated the least important things first. ". . . and all my money!"

"All your money? I hope it was not much."

"It was more than a hundred dollars!" A hundred and twenty, she reminded herself. And Aunt Martha's money order. And all her shore excursion tickets. Her eyes were glued on the spot where all her worldly wealth had sunk

"Oh." The young man seemed to breathe more easily. "Just a hundred dollars."

Joyce spun around to face him. Her eyes darkened.

"Yes, Mr. Rockefeller, that's all," she retorted, with sour contempt for his grand nonchalance. "Just a hundred dollars. But hundred-dollar bills don't grow on trees, not where I come from."

Early Campaign Meeting Is Held In Regina Riding

REGINA, April 7.—Opening the Saskatchewan general election campaign in Regina, 1,200 Labor-Progressive supporters attended a meeting last night to stamp their approval on a five-point platform for their two candidates in Regina riding in the forthcoming balloting.

By resolution, the executive was instructed to call a nominating convention on or before April 20 to choose candidates.

As the meeting drew to a close, Dr. A. O. Store, declaring he was 36 years a Conservative, tendered a resolution asking that all progressive, Conservatives in Regina join to elect the progressive candidates. It was passed.

Power Export Bill Held Up After Easter

OTTAWA, April 7.—Strong Conservative opposition in the senate banking committee to the government bill vesting parliament with authority to issue power export licenses has held up the measure at least until after the Easter recess.

LABOR SECURE IN RAIL UNITY BEATTY SAYS

Joined System Would Not Displace Staffs and Crews Speaker Contends

WOODSTOCK, Ont., April 7.—"It is my sober opinion that a unified railway system will be able to offer employment to every regularly employed railway man now in the service, and to a large percentage of the present casual workers.

"The fear of men being thrown out on the street as an immediate result of unification can be regarded partly as the result of misunderstanding of what is proposed, and partly as the result of carefully cultivated fear."

Sir Edward Beatty, G.B.E., K.C., L.L.D., made this important point in the course of a speech on railway unification delivered before the board of trade here last night. He further stated, "it would not be honest for me to pretend that I can commit the government—the representatives of the owners of the Canadian National — to a fixed labor policy, but for my part, I could not consent to any plan of unification which did not include adequate provision of this nature.

OWN INTENTION

"My own intention in proposing unification and an essential prerequisite of Canadian Pacific adherence to any program of unification is agreement between management and workers on the principles which are to govern labor adjustments. I assume that unification will not proceed at all until the programs of protection for labor has been agreed on between the managements and recognized representatives of employees."

Sir Edward's speech was largely in reply to criticism which has recently come forward on his proposed plan on railway unification. The Canadian people were essentially fair-minded, he said, and have shown themselves willing to accept the truth of the statement that he had been drawn into this controversy because of urgent national interests. The situation was far too important for him to permit any possibility of misunderstanding to influence his course.

HEAVY COMMITTMENTS

The speaker reminded his hearers that government committments on C.N.R. accounts now exceeded three billion dollars, equal to almost half the value of all buildings and lots in Canadian cities and towns; almost three times as much as the total investment in building and equipping the entire Canadian Pacific; almost three dollars a minute since the beginning of the Christian era.

"This," he said, "is a large animal we have by the tail. It might be well to look for a chance to let go." Recent legislation which provided for bookkeeping reductions in C.N.R. obligations and deficits gave no relief to taxpayers. "We have borrowed the money to meet deficits over many years," he said, "and we are still borrowing to meet them. We cannot escape these charges except by inflation or repudiation."

Sir Edward denied that his campaign for unification was a trick of private interests to restore Canadian Pacific dividend payments, and, as had been claimed, a clear case of organized propaganda. "The evidence of organized propaganda on the other side," he said, "has been fairly complete." Letters to newspapers and speeches made by opponents had shown amazing similarity.

Rail Employees Against Unity

MONTREAL, April 7.—Premier division of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees at a meeting last night urged a resolution opposing unification of Canadian railways be adopted at the all-Canadian labor congress at London, Ont., April 11-13.

The division proposed also that a mass meeting of railway workers of Montreal be held to give them an opportunity of expressing their views on unification.

ESTABLISHMENT OF BOARDS SAID SHIRKING DUTIES

OTTAWA, April 7.—By appointing commissions and boards to do the work of government the Liberal administration was shirking responsibility and undermining democracy, W. A. Walsh (Con., Mount Royal) told the House of Commons last night. He was continuing the debate started Monday on unemployment relief and condemned appointment of the national employment and other commissions.

"Distress in Canada is as great today as it was a year ago and as it was two years ago," he said.

J. M. Turner (Lib., Springfield) feared employment figures indicated "we are heading back into the woods."

1937-38 Diary Of I.O.D.E. Is Composed Of Pages Of Splendid Service; $39,000 Raised

Dinner Meet Is Gay Interlude For I.O.D.E.

Gay finale to the opening sessions of the eighteenth annual meeting of the Provincial chapter, Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire on Wednesday was a delightfullly formal banquet at which officers and delegates were the guests of the Municipal chapter.

Preceding the dinner, which was held in the main dining room of the Macdonald hotel, was an after-five party on the mezzanine floor.

Toast-mistress at the enjoyable program which followed dinner was Mrs. Hugh Black, president of the Municipal chapter of Edmonton.

HONORED GUESTS

Honored guests of the Municipal chapter at the banquet were the holders of bursaries and scholarships, who are now attending the University of Alberta. Those present were Mr. James Mann, Mr. Donald Wilson, Mr. Jack Turner, Mr. Clyde Patterson, Mr. Oswald Stubbs, Mr. William Fraser, Mr. Douglas Schell and Mr. Richard Calloway.

Entertaining guests with vocal selections during the evening were Miss Margaret Albright and Mr. William Townend, and piano accompanists were Mrs. T. Winslow Hamilton and Miss Patricia Brown.

Guests at the head table were Judge A. U. G. Bury, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Marshall, His Lordship Bishop A. E. Burgett, Major McLaren, Dr. and Mrs. M. R. Bow, Mr. J. W. Hugill, M.L.A., Mrs. Hugh Black, Mrs. F. C. Casselman, Mrs. M. J. Hilton, Mrs. Clarence Richards, Mrs. B. Glover, Mrs. R. J. G. White, Mrs. B. E. Caniff, Mrs. Frank Jones and Mrs. C. L. Morton.

Mrs. F. C. Casselman, guest speaker at the after-dinner program discussed very interestingly features of the League of Nations, pointing out that, after all, the League, reorganized and strengthened, is the only means of obtaining unity and stability among the nations. Only as strong as the individual members who form it, the league has lost ground in the past years, due to internal strife which has been carried into the international field and mutual suspicion has made the league unable to operate.

"Never was the need greater than at the present for the League," Mrs. Casselman continued, "when political strife is used the same as warfare, and the only thing that can stand above and beyond a nation is a league composed of them all."

ARMAMENTS ALTERNATIVE

Alternatives to the League of Nations, named by Mrs. Casselman, could be armaments, which only cause excessive taxation and stress and strain; powerlessness to protest abuses in the nation; regional pacts, which are splendid to a degree but do not go as far as the league can or lastly isolation, which would lower the standard of living and only postpone the inevitable crash.

Toast to the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire, proposed by Major McLaren, was replied to by Mrs. R. C. Marshall, who at this time presented certificates to several bursary students present and a shield for general proficiency in Girl Guide work to Miss Ethel Jamieson, of the 62nd I.O.D.E. Girl Guide company of Drumheller.

TO THE VISITORS!

Mrs. Clarence Richards proposed the toast to the visitors, while Mrs. B. Glover of Lethbridge replied.

Appreciation for the kind hospitality of the Municipal Chapter was expressed by Bishop Burgett. Toast to the Empire, proposed by Mrs. R. J. G. White of Calgary, was responded to by Judge A. U. G. Bury.

Following the banquet delegates were guests of the Kathleen Parlow chapter of the I.O.D.E. at bridge, and honors during the evening went to Miss Marian Webb and Mrs. L. M. Shore.

Delegates Hear Gratifying Reports At 18th Annual Session

Turning back the pages and reading what has been written during the past year—a year filled with the work of helping others—and finding revealed there a wonderful record of progress, was the experience of members of the Provincial Chapter, Imperial Order, Daughters of the Empire who attended opening sessions of the eighteenth annual meeting in the Macdonald hotel on Wednesday.

REPORTS GIVEN

Morning and afternoon sessions were featured by the reading of reports by officers of the Provincial chapter and provincial conveners, while in the evening the officers and delegates were the guests of the Edmonton Municipal chapter at dinner.

Mrs. R. C. Marshall, president of the Provincial chapter presided at the business sessions and in the evening Mrs. Hugh Black, regent of the Municipal chapter was hostess.

Thrill of accomplishment must have been experienced by the many delegates as reports revealed that the aims and objects set before them at the last convention had been realized.

$39,000 RAISED

Approximately $39,000 was raised by chapters during the past year, an increase of $2,000 over the previous year, Mrs. Frank Jones stated in giving her secretary's report.

At this time last year, Coronation activities of the order were in preparation and the many affairs held to celebrate the coronation of Their Majesties were very successful. To commemorate the occasion a Coronation fund was inaugurated, which established three bursaries of $400 each, while there was also a sale of medals, seals and stickers.

TWO MEMBERS HONORED

Two members, Mrs. R. C. Marshall, of Edmonton and Mrs. H. J. Akitt of Calgary were the recipients of medals sent by His Majesty the King to mark the Coronation.

Several chapters of the order attended special services on Founders Day and also peace meetings in November while a representative, Mrs. M. J. Hilton, took part in the discussions concerning radio broadcasting in Canada, at the request of Miss S. Marriatt.

A resolution was introduced that there be two councillors to chapters with a membership up to 50 while those with a membership of over 50 should have three councillors.

FOUR LIFE MEMBERSHIPS

Four life memberships were presented during the past year, to Mrs. R. C. Marshall, Mrs. H. Kinnear, Mrs. T. J. Johnstone and Mrs. H. C. Dalgleish while there were four new chapters established in Alberta, two primary and two junior.

Work along education lines has been very progressive, with numerous scholarships and bursaries for university study being awarded to young people, it was revealed in Mrs. J. Stewart Anderson's educational report, read by Mrs. C. T. Woodside. Libraries have been sent to many parts of the province and many schools have been supplied with educational pictures. A special statement prepared to show the money expended along educational lines, revealed that over $95,000 has been spent since 1920.

NEW CHAPTERS

Report of the organization of chapters in various parts of the province was given by the organizing secretary, Mrs. R. L. Nicolson; Mrs. C. N. Jamieson discussed features of the I.O.D.E. magazine "Echoes," stating that the Coronation issue was very splendid with nearly 2,000 additional copies being printed.

Progress made in child welfare work was reported by Mrs. Clarence Richards, Mrs. H. Pinkey discussed the work of the order in India, while Mrs. T. J. Johnston spoke of the work done in assisting those in training in the navy.

Prize-Winning Play Will Be Repeated

Charles Dickens has written many laughable incidents and happenings into the lives of the various characters in his novels, but none of them more laughable nor more enjoyable than the incidents in "Proposal by Proxy," which dramatization, when it was presented in the recent Edmonton Little Theatre Dramatic Festival by the Dickens' Fellowship, won first prize.

INSTANT SUCCESS

Dramatized and directed by Mr. Fred Val Carey, the play was an instant success, both to the adjudicators who praised it so highly, and to the audience who witnessed its first presentation, and will be so, it is expected, when it will be again presented on Tuesday evening, April 12, in the Separate School hall in 103 street.

President of the Edmonton Little Theatre, Mr. Stanley Wade will be present, and will award the shield during the evening.

Characters will repeat their performances, Rose Remnick as Martha; Ruby Greenwood as Miss Lillerton; Mrs. H. R. Warren as Mrs. Parsons; Mr. Fred Val Carey as Mr. Parsons; Val D. Nalty (best actor award winner) as Mr. Watkins Tottle, and John Holmes as Reverend Charles Timson.

Another character of Charles Dickens, Oliver Twist, will again hold the stage, for the Herbert Brenon-Monogram motion picture by that name will be shown.

Proceeds will go to the Junior Red Cross, it is announced.

LILLIAN QUIRING BAKKIE

Lillian Bakkie, manageress of a lunch shop at 10619 Jasper avenue, was born at Coronation, where she was educated at public and high school. She started her business career in 1934, with the Merrick Drug stores at the Sandwich Shoppe, where she was waitress. She was transferred from one to another of the Merrick stores, in the Coffee Shoppe, the Birks building, the McLeod building, until finally she went to the Lunch Shoppe two years ago, and took over the managership of that concern.

Mrs. Bakkie likes the movies and music. She enjoys taking long walks by the river, and reads a good deal, romantic fiction being her favorite. She is protestant.

the social round . . . . .

WHEN the Weatherman announces gayly on a cold March 21 that it is the first day of spring we are never greatly impressed. Neither do sudden displays of flimsy summer frocks or spades or rakes or garden furniture win us over. Spring receives no formal acknowledgment from us at all until the day on which every person we meet says after a few minutes conversation and a few futile pats at a straggling coiffure, "Oh dear, oh dear, my HAIR. Something just must be done with my hair!" Everyone's hair has been perfectly all right, mind you, right up until that certain day, but suddenly a general dissatisfaction takes the womanhood of the town in its grip, and the song of springtime is echoed on a thousand lips, "Oh, what's to be done with my hair?" Yesterday marked a fairly definite commencement of spring according to hairdo's, and we can now anticipate three uncomfortable weeks of trying to remember how her hair was last week when a friend beams at us expectantly, "Well, do you like it?"

Overseas League Secretary Entertains Tea-Guests With Tales Of "Canadians In London"

Speaker Extols Advances In Liberal Era

Contributions that the Liberal government of Canada under the leadership of Honorable Mr. Mackenzie King have already made, since their sweeping of the federal polls in 1935, in the interests of prosperity and well being for Canada, were vividly pointed out by Mrs. Frank J. Conroy at a more than usually interesting meeting of the Edmonton Women's Liberal Club on Tuesday afternoon in the Hudson's Bay Company store.

PROMISES FULFILLED

Mr. Mackenzie King's "few election promises" of 1935, have not been broken, as some think but are being fulfilled in wisdom and caution, slowly but surely, the speaker stated.

Touching on the high-lights of the Liberal regime in Ottawa, Mrs. Conroy mentioned that the federal government did gain control of the Central bank with all such a step involves. Increase of currency and credit, to the sum of $350,000,000, has been made during their time in power.

Foreign markets have been regained by the government, she said, with a resulting increase of trade to the sum of approximately one billion dollars, and Canada possesses a favorable trade balance today, she went on.

UNEMPLOYMENT REDUCED

Unemployment has been reduced to almost half of its number in 1935, Mrs. Conroy stated.

More than 25,000 young people in Canada have already been given training in occupations and trades, which constitutes a major factor in the recovery program of Canada, Mrs. Conroy pointed out.

Economy in governmental expenditures will enable the balancing of the budget shortly, she stressed, and also touched on a vital point, "Alberta has not been discriminated against," she said.

"Alberta has received assistance on the same basis as Saskatchewan has," she said in explanation." More than $11,000,000 has been received from the government since 1935, and Alberta has been offered a debt-reduction program similar to that of Saskatchewan," she continued.

Mrs. A. H. Gardiner, president of the club, presided during the meeting and led in the discussion period.

NATIONS' CARNIVAL

Reporting on the progress of the Carnival of Nations to be held in Edmonton under the auspices of the club in early May, Mrs. C. E. Ferris stated that twelve national groups had already signified their intention of taking part, and that negotiations were pending with others.

A meeting of the carnival workers has been called for Tuesday, April 12 at the home of Mrs. David Elston, it was announced. Mrs. Elston is in charge of the carnival program.

Mrs. W. E. Kitchen spoke interestingly on "Early Days in the Club" which proved of great interest to all members present.

NEW MEMBERS

Several new members were welcomed into the club and later at the tea hour, Mrs. F. L. Pruden of Faust, Alberta, vice-president of the Women's Provincial Liberal Association was an honored guest.

Documentary Films Enhance Lecture Given At Canadian Club

Far as the breeze can bear and the billows foam,
Survey our Empire and behold our home.

Bywords of the Overseas League cast their spell over a large gathering of tea-guests in the Macdonald hotel on Wednesday afternoon when in a bright address enhanced by several interesting films, Miss Edith M. Gray of Winnipeg, organizing secretary for the association in western Canada, regaled members of the Women's Canadian Club with the experiences of "Canadians in London."

. . . AND STAY TO PRAISE

Honorary secretary of the Canadian Women's Club in London, Miss Gray was until just lately associated unofficially with Canada House and has seen hundreds of Canadians come and go in the heart-city of the Empire. She has heard their early complaints at the plumbing, the coffee, and the charge of a penny a pat for butter and has heard them go away singing the praises of Merry England. For every objection the newcomers raise, she said laughingly, there's a ready answer on the lips of an older resident. Young Canadian students are among those who have had their eyes opened as the English people have expended every effort in showing them British country life at no expense.

OVER-CAUTIOUS

Miss Gray herself, she confessed, was one of those people who were convinced that all English country homes, and more especially the bedrooms in all English country homes, were bitterly cold, and when she had to go to lecture to a country Women's Institute one February she included in her suitcase a pair of bed socks, an old red sweater, and "a fearful flannelette nightie which was thrust on me at a church bazaar." Her audience could understand her embarassment when the maid in the quite-modern home in which she found she was a guest, began to unpack her things, gravely laying the bed socks, the red sweater and the nightie out on the bed, and filling a huge chest of drawers with the business papers she had brought along to "fill in"!

HOSPITAL IS BUSINESS

Through her connection at Canada House, Miss Gray found herself at Coronation time last May with some 18 people to look after during their entire London visit, and it was then that she first contacted the Overseas League which she now represents. Their business is showing visitors around, acquainting them with the lives and customs of people in other parts of the Empire making them feel in general, that wherever they are among Britishers they are among friends—and it was through them that Miss Gray was able to see that her charges met people, and "went places and did things."

The League of course does not confine its activities to London, and in her present visit to the west Miss Gray is trying to stimulate further enthusiasm for its work in this part of the Dominion. It is perfectly absurd, she pointed out, for English people to return from a world trip, and in reply to the question, "And did you go to Canada?" to answer, "Well no—we didn't know anyone there you see."

The Canadian Women's Club assists immeasurably in the matter of the readjustment of Canadians to life in England. It is a very pleasant meeting place for Canadians away from Canada, and no longer do people from this Dominion complain to Miss Gray that although they have been in the city three months they don't know a couple to invite in for a bridge game.

To qualify for membership in this organization, of which Lady Bessborough is a one-time president, a woman must be Canadian born, must have lived in Canada for five years or must be married to a Canadian. Meetings, which being in London are naturally tea-time ones, are held on the first Wednesday of each month, and there are always a number of hostesses at each gathering to ensure strangers of an introduction to congenial friends.

Examining her countrymen (she is Canadian-born) as she has seen them away from home, Miss Gray thinks that their outstanding general characteristic is friendliness. "Friendship is a common art or gift with Canadians," she said. "It is the great contribution that we can make both at home and abroad. It is a quality which we can express as individuals, and in organizations, particularly organizations which bear the name 'Canadian'."

Following her address Miss Gray entertained her audience with three documentary films, one of which was made by a Canadian girl in London—Miss Evelyn Spice, who is director for the G.P.O. Film unit.

"WEATHER FORECAST"

Miss Spice's picture, "Weather Forecast", was a most interesting description of how the air ministry in London predicts the whims of the Weather Man by means of reports from ships at sea, from home and foreign points, and how gale warnings go out, affecting chiefly the farmer, the airman and the fisherman.

The English potter was shown at work in another picture of the Wedgewood factory in Staffordshire and a final film showed His Majesty the King reviewing the fleet at Spithead.

Mrs. Gordon Swallow, the club president, introduced Miss Gray, others at the head table including Mrs. Clifford Butterworth, Mrs. E. W. S. Kane, Mrs. W. J. Melrose, Mrs. Chester B. Gainer, Mrs. R. M. Shaw and Mrs. A. E. Ottewell.

"Snow Queen" To Be Story Hour Topic

"The Snow Queen" will be the illustrated story this week. The story lady will also tell one of Selma Lagerlof's Christ Legends, entitled, "How the Robin got his Red Breast." She will also continue the story of Gretel. The hours are, 4:30 p.m. on Friday in the Edmonton library, and 10:30 a.m. on Saturday in the Strathcona library.

Work Into Shape Now For Play In Summer

By ALICIA HART

This is the time to begin thinking about the way you want to appear in summer beach clothes, tennis shorts and golf dresses. The woman who wants to eliminate bulges which will mar the effect of a trim bathing suit will start right now to do reducing exercises regularly and will also do something toward planning a healthful but non-fattening diet.

It is, of course, much smarter to lose weight gradually and by exercise as well as diet than to decide that you must be a certain smaller size within two or three weeks, then go on a very rigid diet. Starvation diets just should not be considered except under a doctor's orders.

Begin by deciding how many calories you will allow yourself each day. Figure out a way to consume quantities of foods that are low in caloric content rather than a few small portions of those that are calorie rich.

For instance, a dinner of clear soup, a portion of lean meat, two or three green vegetables (not dripping with butter, please), a large green salad (more lemon juice than oil in the dressing), and a bit of unsweetened, stewed fruit ough to be enough dinner to keep one from getting hungry before bedtime. And this is a low-caloric meal. Get into the habit of choosing leafy, green vegetables in preference to heavy, starchy ones and a large salad plus a bit of fruit instead of rich dessert and you will be a long way on the royal road to weight reduction.

Naturally, if you consume fewer calories than you have been eating and get more exercise than you have been taking, you are bound to lose weight—no question about it. Furthermore, exercise keeps skin from becoming flabby as fat tissues underneath disappear. It isn't easy to lose several pounds, but it can be done. And accomplished sensibly, the average woman is likely to have prettier skin as well as a lovelier figure.

Attractive Elizabeth Garrett, 18-year-old dramatic student, might easily pose for the picture of the typical American girl. Lovely to look at, she's ambitious, determined, willing to take the hard assignments now for the sake of the glorious days she "just knows" are right ahead. Miss Garrett was born in St. Joseph, brought up in Seattle, went to the Annie Wright Seminary in Portland, Ore., is now studying at the Neighborhood Playhouse School of the Theatre in New York.

Powell River To Shut Down Week

POWELL RIVER, B.C., April 7.—Powell River Company's paper mill will be shut down for one week, April 18 to 23, officials of the company announced Wednesday.

Failure to receive anticipated orders was given as reason for the shutdown. It was expected a return would be made to the five-day week schedule, in effect since last November.

A similar one week curtailment was made in March.

Early Rains Give Bright Prospects

WINNIPEG, April 7. — March rains, which soaked the prairies after a warm spell, seeped into thawed-out farm lands to build a welcome moisture reserve for seeding, a survey of western crop reports showed today. The rains, unusually early, generally produced brighter prospects than at this period last year.

ATHEISTS DO NOT DISBELIEVE IN GOD

Because a person claims to be an Atheist does not mean he does not believe in God, but that he disbelieves in many current ideas about God. The early Christians were Atheists, because they denied the current pagan gods of their day. Even Voltaire was not a disbeliever in God, as he himself said; but he revolted against the idea of God which prevailed at that time—the idea that God was an intolerant god who wished all non-Catholics burned, and that unborn babies were predestined to eternal damnation. This is what nearly all so-called atheism is: a revolt against ideas about God, rather than against God.

Newspaper Advertising Directs the Buyer to the "Point of Sale"

Unless a person knows a thing exists, he will not conscientiously patronize it.

GOOD advertising, therefore, informs . . . persuades . . . convinces but, in the final analysis, all publicity is of no avail unless the buyer and seller are brought together to complete the transaction. Then, and only then, does the cumulative benefit of advertising accrue.

Newspaper advertising, not only promotes the desire to buy but furthers the actual sale by telling the consumer where the product is available. It points to the retail outlet and, as the daily circulation blankets that outlet's trading area, the designation is most complete and effective, and greater benefit accrues to the product, the buyer, and the dealer.

This advertisement was prepared for the Canadian Daily Newspapers Association by Ardiel Advertising Agency, Limited.

DOROTHY DIX Says:

LISTEN, GIRLS! Have a new beau every day. Change the Boy Friend as often as you do your hat and your hair-do. Get acquainted with all the different styles and types of boys—tall ones and short ones, fat ones and thin ones, blondes and brunettes, good-lookers and homely ones, those who have a line and those who choke on their Adam's apple when they try to jolly a girl—to see which one you really like the best and which one blends the best with your own particular taste and disposition.

That is the davice that a distinguished professor gives to the girls of 'teen age in a coed university. And he further goes on to say that the more experience that young people have in love, the better their lives will be; that mothers shouldn't try to keep their young daughters from falling in love. They should encourage bread-and-butter romances and Mamie and Sadie having a fresh "pash" at least once a week.

Have a new beau every day. These are words of wisdom that I trust every girl who reads these lines will cut out and paste in her compact where it will be continually before her eyes, for the biggest mistake that a girl ever makes is in letting some boy monopolize her and segregate her from the crowd before she ever has a chance to look 'em over and see which one really hits her fancy.

Don't make that mistake. Don't tie yourself down to Tom before you have given Dick and Harry, Percival and Augustus a whirl. Play around with just as many lads as you can because that is the only way you can get to know anything about men, get wise to their little tricks and manners, and so be able to compare them and decide which is the most desirable. Or, at any rate, which one you want for keeps.

Most of the misfit marriages that end in divorce are the result of young people not having had enough experience with members of the opposite sex to be able to judge whether they were shoddy or all wool and a yard wide and guaranteed not to shrink or fade in the wash of everyday living. All boys and girls look alike to them, so they take the first one who is handsome and "amusing," as the salesladies say, and regret their bargain ever afterward. Don't do this. Shop around for a husband as carefully as you would for a dress that you expected to have to wear a long time and that you would still feel dressed up in as long as there was a rag of it left.

Experiment a lot with love before you go off the deep end with any man. There is nothing so tricky as heart disease. The first time you have an attack and find your pulses throbbing, your breath going short and you lose your appetite and lie awake at night wondering if he got home safely or was run over by an automobile, you are sure that you have a fatal case that nothing but death will ever end.

But no casualty occurs. He goes off to school, or you go to visit Cousin Maria; another boy comes along and another after him, who rouses the same symptoms in you. But like cures like and you are miraculously saved for the time when you are past the calf-love stage and are capable of a deep and enduring passion. But you would have been sunk if you had married your first sweetheart.

So while you are young and unformed and your emotions haven't had time to jell, change your partners often, girls. Have a new beau every day! Don't go "steady," as the phrase goes, with any boy. Constancy at your age is just a quality of stickiness that you have in common with a porous plaster. Don't be afraid that if you give up one boy you won't get another. The reason they steer clear of you now is because they think you are bespoken.

Anyway you look at it "keeping company" is a racket in which men get all the percentage. It is bitterly unfair to girls. It forces a girl to give up all other men for one and cuts her off from any chance of marrying any one else, but it doesn't obligate the man to marry her. He can kiss and ride away whenever he likes and she is left flat. And the marvel is that girls are silly enough to enter into a game in which the cards are all stacked against them.

Don't do it, girls. Have a new beau every day! Change boy friends! Competition is the life of trade in love as well as business.

DOROTHY DIX.

According To Culbertson

By ELY CULBERTSON

The often mentioned but seldom understood law of averages is not immutable, as is the law of gravity, for example. If just one apple were to fall upward from a tree we might well prepare for the sudden disintegration of our universe. "Probabilities" upon which are based our knowledge of "percentages" do not work along such narrow lines. It is by no means impossible for a coin tossed into the air to fall heads twenty times in a row. Such an event, however, is so rare that any individual who wagers even money on its occurrence should be locked up for observation. To a lesser degree this also applies to the bridge player who selects a line of play that has one chance, instead of another line that has three or four chances. Consider the "percentage" play involved in the following hand:

South, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.
Match-point duplicate.

NORTH
♠ Q 6
♥ 8 7 5
♦ J 9 8 6 2
♣ A J 9

WEST
♠ 8 7 5 4 3 2
♥ A 10 3
♦ None

EAST
♠ K J 9
♥ K Q 4 2
♦ K 10 4

SOUTH
♠ A 10
♥ J 9 6
♦ A Q 7 5 3
♣ K Q 10

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 diamond	Pass	2 diamonds	Pass
2 no trump	Pass	3 no trump	Pass
Pass	Pass

The bidding was identical at seven tables in a recent duplicate game, and in every case West opened the fourth best spade. Some declarers went up with dummy's queen, others let the lead ride to the A-10. But, since East had both the king and jack, this was immaterial. South lost his only spade stopper immediately. With the heart suit wide open it was apparent that the only hope of fulfilling the contract depended on running the diamond suit without losing the lead. No other consideration was involved. The K-10-4 of diamonds were outstanding. As we know, with only ten of a suit, missing the king, the proper play is to finesse, not to play for a drop. Hence, if the diamond king is in West's hand, whether guarded or unguarded, it will make, since there is no reason to violate this rule of play. All right, we must finesse, but in precisely what manner? Entering dummy with a club, should we lead a low diamond and finesse to the queen, or lead the jack and, if it is not covered, let it ride?

The answer to this is simple when we consider the possible distributions of the missing diamonds. It East has the king blank, the K-10 or the K-4, it does not matter what diamond we lead from dummy. We are perfectly safe. There is a possibility, however, that East holds all three of the missing diamonds, and in that case it will be fatal to lead low to the queen. East, of course, will not split his honors. He will put the four on the deuce. The queen holds but, when West fails to follow, our doom becomes plain. East still has the K-10 and no manner of play can shut out his trick.

Had we played properly and led dummy's diamond jack, the doom would be transferred to East. If he covered, our ace would win and, since West would show out, another finesse would be established against the ten spot. If East ducked, the jack would hold. Thus, since there is nothing to lose in any case by leading the jack, and something to gain in one case, this selection becomes the "percentage" play.

I regret to report that, of the seven declarers, only two led the jack instead of a low diamond through East and, hence only two fulfilled their contracts.

Buffet Supper For Working Girl Party

By MRS. GAYNOR MADDOX

Girls who work still can have parties. They may get home late, or live in tiny quarters, yet have a good time with their friends.

Call up your friends, set the date and hour for a buffet supper after an evening of bridge, or better still, for Sunday night. Then follow this easy to get menu. It's one of those tested affairs that brings results and praise and sets you up as one of those amazingly clever modern girls who go to business without getting into a rut.

This is the menu: clam juice cocktail, or grapefruit juice, chilled, ham and peas in casserole, potato chips, tomato, orange and watercress salad, hot rolls with butter, assorted cheese and cracker tray, bowl of selected fruits, coffee.

CLAM JUICE COCKTAIL

One quart of fresh or canned clam juice, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 2 tablespoons catsup, pinch cayenne pepper, ½ teaspoon celery salt, pinch ground mace.

Mix ingredients in cocktail shaker. Add cracked ice and shake well.

CHILLED GRAPEFRUIT JUICE
(8 servings)

Two cans grapefruit juice, No. 2 size. This is a little more than 1 quart of juice. Chill in the refrigerator before serving.

HAM AND PEAS EN CASSEROLE
(A little over 2 quarts, or 8 generous servings)

Two packages frozen peas (about 4 cups shelled), 2 pounds cooked ham (this may be purchased canned), 2 cans cream of mushroom soup (about 1 quart), 1 can of cream of celery soup (about 1⅓ cups).

Cook peas as directed on the package; thinly slice ham into servings. Mix the soups. Take two heat resistant glass casseroles—1½ quart size each—grease them well and in each casserole put a layer of ham, some of the soup and then the cooked peas, repeating until all are used.

Bake for about 30 minutes in a moderate oven (325 degrees F.), or until well heated through. Bring only one of the glass casseroles of ham and peas to the table at the beginning of the meal; and when second servings are needed bring the other casserole to the serving table.

POTATO CHIPS
(8 servings)

One-half pound potato chips, as purchased. Heat in the oven for about 10 minutes just before serving.

ROLLS
(8 servings)

One and a half dozen hard rolls, purchased at the bakery. Arrange rolls in oblong glass baking dishes. Cover and heat for 15 minutes in a moderate oven (325 degrees F.) just before serving. Take freshened rolls directly to the table in the same hot dish so they will keep hot and tempting through the meal.

Tomorrow's Menu

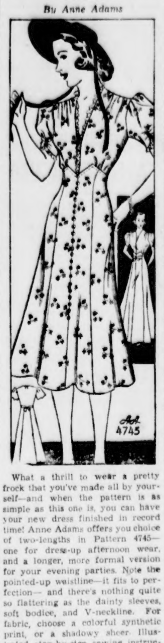
BREAKFAST: Prunes cooked in orange juice, French toast, bacon, coffee, milk.

LUNCHEON: Ham and peas in casserole, green salad, frosted cup cakes, tea, milk.

DINNER: Clam juice cocktail, fish souffle, mustard cream sauce, steamed rice, grilled tomatoes, watercress salad, mocha custard with sliced bananas, coffee, milk.

Bulletin Patterns

By Anne Adams



What a thrill to wear a pretty frock that you've made all by yourself—and when the pattern is as simple as this one is, you can have your new dress finished in record time! Anne Adams offers you choice of two-lengths in Pattern 4745—one for dress-up afternoon wear, and a longer, more formal version for your evening parties. Note the pointed-up waistline—it fits to perfection— and there's nothing quite so flattering as the dainty sleeves, soft bodice, and V-neckline. For fabric, choose a colorful synthetic print, or a shadowy sheer. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included.

Pattern 4745 is available in misses' and women's sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38, and 40. Size 16 takes 3¾ yards 39-inch fabric and 2½ yards lace edging.

Send TWENTY CENTS (20c) in coins for this Anne Adams pattern. Write plainly SIZE, NAME, ADDRESS and STYLE NUMBER.

Send your order to the Edmonton Bulletin, Pattern Department, Edmonton, Alberta.

What To Do

Can you suggest any unusual ways to decorate an Easter dinner table. I am planning to have a family dinner on Saturday before Easter and would like to have something different for the centre of the table. But the suggestions must be inexpensive. The color of my china is blue. Thank you.

Answer—If your china is blue, why not get an inexpensive buttercup yellow tablecloth? It would add such a cheerful note to your Easter table, and would be a lovely contrast with your blue china. If you are one of the fortunates with forsythia bushes growing in your garden, pussy willows and forsythia branches make one of the very loveliest combinations for the centre of the table. Or a low blue bowl with blue Spanish iris and daffodils flanked on each side with tall yellow candles would be effective with your blue china. A basket or bowl of gayly colored Easter eggs would be lovely arranged in a bed of ivy sprays. And if you are lucky enough to own a pair of milk glass setting hens, do put them on the table.

Our word "alimony" comes from the Latin "alimonia," meaning "nourishment, or sustenance."

Raising A Family -

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

The figures for sleep in all young children are easy to remember. From 11 to 13 hours at night, and two in the daytime, not too close to bedtime. The day siesta may not produce slumber, but at least it gives a respite to nerves and keeps the little person away from excitement, which wears out nerves.

Too long in bed, of course, is trying to energy and is the foundation of many poor habits. The rested child needs to get up and about. He is miserably restless when he is all slept out. Too much bed is almost as bad as not enough of it.

O. R. Barton

If Jackie does not get his nap through the day, by four or five o'clock he will be cranky. Even if he does have a nap, his best time is not toward evening. The waning day, with more people about, the other children home from school and a general quickening of family life, exacts more from him, too, than the peaceful early hours.

NEAR BEDTIME, A BAD TIME

Just before bedtime the little child is most vulnerable to upsets. He meets with situations beyond his limited experience. Maybe he is taken out on trips with the family or to the movies. Maybe company comes and he is expected to be on his very best behavior. But his nerve supply is used up and he gets confused. So temper jumps to his relief.

In summer bed-time hours may be shifted a little to let upper rooms cool off—for intense heat is cruel. But when the full quota of hours cannot be met at night, then enough sleep should be obtained in the coolness of the morning. In this case, move back the get-up time.

HALF-HOUR FOR DADDY

Father naturally wants to see his son when he comes home and maybe the 5:15 doesn't arrive until after son's bed-time. Isn't Daddy ever to see his baby?

Half an hour is plenty. Jackie can see papa in the morning for a few minutes and on Sunday.

As for meals, the ideal way is to have baby all fed, mother, so that you and your husband may enjoy your daily visit in peace and also digest your own food.

ROYAL CITY TOMATOES

RECIPE

ROYAL CITY TOMATOES

TOMATO CREAM SAUCE

½ No. 2 tin Royal City Tomatoes
1 cup medium white sauce
1 slice onion
1 stalk celery
½ teaspoon salt
Few grains cayenne
½ bay leaf

Simmer chopped onion, chopped celery and seasoning with tomatoes 20 minutes or until very soft. Force through a sieve. Blend with medium white sauce. This is an excellent accompaniment for croquettes, cutlets or baked fish.

SOCRED MANUAL AND BIBLE ARE BLIZZARD FARE

ERSKINE, Alta., April 7. — Storms have no terror for J. Duckworth of Stettler. Marooned in his car during last week's blizzard he spent the night reading — the Bible and the "Social Credit" manual. They were, he explained, the only books he had in his car.

Broomhall

The demand for wheat in Europe was much quieter yesterday following the previous day's purchases of Australian wheat by the U. K. One cargo of afloat Australian wheat was sold in England but the demand for wheat generally was very slow. There is nothing definite as yet of a let-up in Australian offerings, which continue to exert a depressing influence upon importing markets. Dry soil conditions over larger areas of Australia are causing a delay in seeding of the new wheat crop and if this drought should be protracted it may result in a more reserved attitude on the part of shippers. Complaints of dryness are increasing in southern Europe, particularly Italy, where there is talk of a probable substantial reduction in the yields in some important producing sections. Last year's wheat crop was officially reported to be sufficient to cover home needs but it is now stated that old crop supplies are already becoming tight with imports a possibility, which would tend to substantiate private estimates last year which in most instances were lower than the optimistic government reports.

WHEAT FUTURES AVERAGE HIGHER

WINNIPEG, April 7 — Winnipeg wheat futures averaged higher today on buying flurries caused by severe frost in sections of the United States winter wheat belt. Futures closed 1½-½ cent higher; May $1.24⅝, July $1.11⅜ and October 87⅜ cents.

Brokers speculated on possible wheat damage as temperatures dropped to 20 above at several points in the southwest. Forecast promised freezing temperatures in western sections tonight.

Winnipeg May climbed more than two cents for the third successive day.

Canadian export sales continued small, less than 100,000 bushels.

Liverpool closed ⅝d higher. Buenos Aires noon quotations were unchanged to ⅜ lower.

Minor purchases sent all coarse grain futures, except flax to higher levels during the session. Flax was neglected.

Wife Of Slain Man Seeking To Establish Will

Echoes of the famous Conradson murder trial were heard in supreme court chambers Thursday morning when George B. O'Connor, K.C., counsel for the relatives of Carl Anderson, requested the presiding judge, Mr. Justice A. F. Ewing, to set a date for the hearing of the action brought by Mrs. Frank Conradson seeking to establish the existence of a will in her favor made by Anderson.

Anderson's charred body was found in the ashes of his fire-razed shack at Buck Creek on December 15, 1933. Circumstances surrounding the death were suspicious and Frank Conradson and his son were arrested, tried for the murder of Anderson and acquitted by a jury. Mr. Justice Ewing presided at the murder trial.

Mr. O'Connor told the court that it was Mrs. Conradson's contention that Anderson made a will in her favor while she was living with him at Vancouver. This will could not be found in Anderson's effects, he said.

He added that the Swedish consul was pressing for settlement of the estate on behalf of relatives in Sweden. The court set April 25 as the date of the hearing.

DUMP DWELLERS MAY BE MOVED AFTER SURVEY

Proposed removal of shack-dwellers on the city dump will be considered shortly by city commissioners following preparation of a report on conditions prevailing on the dump prepared by the health department. Fifty-six persons, two of them children, reside in 58 shacks, nine of the makeshift dwellings being vacant at the present time.

Dr. G. M. Little, city medical health officer, said his department had completed a survey of conditions on the dump in connection with a decision made by civic authorities last fall to move the people and demolish the shacks this spring.

The medical health officer said the dwellings were occupied by single and married persons, some of whom were in receipt of relief. Two men aged 68 and 69 years, respectively, are eligible for old age pensions. Two children aged four and 13 years are also living in homes on the dump, while a 17-year-old mother is expecting a child.

Dr. Little stressed the fact that the shacks lacked sanitary conveniences or a pure water supply, and that such a settlement should not be permitted to continue so near the centre of the city.

The dump is located north and east of the Low Level bridge.

BRITISH AIDE MURDERED IN TERROR REIGN

SHANGHAI, April 7—The body of Harold Porter, British vice chairman of the Shanghai Municipal Council, was found in the Whangpoo river today. He had apparently been stabbed to death and thrown into the water.

Discovery of his body followed by a few hours the assassination of Herman C. Liu, president of Shanghai university and one of the leading figures in the Chinese community, killed presumably for political reasons by terrorists who opened fire on his car in the heart of the International Settlement.

New Police Signal System Advocated

Council Advised Spend $4,500 to Provide Phones

Further Consideration Suggested By Committee Before Installation Of Police Radio Equipment Is Undertaken

Installation this summer of a supervisory signal system for the city police department at a cost of $4,500 was recommended to city council Wednesday by the civic finance committee. Council will consider the recommendation at its regular meeting next Monday.

Proposed use of police radio equipment at a cost of $8,500 to be operated in connection with the signal system should be considered further before any definite action is taken to operate radio-equipped police cars, the committee recommended.

PHONE EQUIPMENT

The supervisory signal system, consisting of telephone call boxes located in various parts of the city through which the police department could contact constables on duty, would be installed by the city telephone department. Obsolete three-wire telephone equipment which is being abandoned by the telephone system in connection with the installation of modern two-wire equipment in the west and north end exchanges this year would be available for use for the police signal supervisory system.

The $4,500 plan is being recommended as a substitute for the

The Inquiring Reporter

Unemployment insurance came one step closer in Canada when Labor Minister Rogers told the House of Commons recently that he hoped no constitutional barriers would be found to block its acceptance. "What do you think of a scheme of national unemployment insurance?" The Bulletin's Inquiring Reporter asked. Here are the replies:

COLIN HAY, merchant: I think unemployment insurance is a much-needed social reform in Canada. Most countries in Europe have had such a scheme in operation for many years, and we in this country are at least a generation behind the policy now prevailing in Great Britain.

HOWARD ALEXANDER, clerk: To be effective, such a plan must be contributory. Otherwise the resources of the unemployment fund will not be able to take care of the demands made upon it.

DAVE COLLINS, student: The trade unions of Canada, spokesmen for organized labor, have been intent upon securing unemployment insurance on a satisfactory basis for many years. That seems to indicate that it is good for the working man.

JIM WILSON, clerk: There is urgent need in Canada of an unemployment insurance fund and it would be a national calamity if the necessary co-operation between the federal and provincial governments to establish such a scheme could not be secured.

Following are the larger permits issued by the city building department: Highlands Golf Club, addition to clubhouse at 67 street and Ada boulevard, $4,000; Robert H. Rae, frame dwelling and garage at 11504 86 street, $2,700; Charles Cummer, frame and stucco dwelling at 11124 82 avenue, $2,700; B. J. Tingstad, repairs and shingling of a one-family dwelling at 11708 93 street, $350; W. T. Dixon, repairs and alterations to a one-family dwelling at 9829 86 avenue, $800.

STUDENT GROUP OPERATES WITH $2,418 PROFIT

Last Union Meeting Of Term Held Wednesday At University

The final Students' Union meeting of the University of Alberta for the present term, held Wednesday afternoon in the Arts building, with the installation of the recently elected councillors, brought a financial statement from the old council, showing a surplus of $2,418.93 for the year's operations. Increased revenue was reported from practically all activities of the union.

The item that students were most interested in was the building fund, which with the application of this year's surplus was raised to $15,169.

YEAR BOOK SURPLUS

One of the most pleasant surprises was a surplus reported from the Year Book, which usually has a hard time budgeting on its grant and income. This year it showed a surplus of $68 after accounting for all its expenditures which totalled almost $7,000.

The undergraduate newspaper, The Gateway, also showed an increase in surplus, after spending of $6,000 during the year. This increase was due to an increased advertising lineage, totalling almost $3,000.

The University covered rink had a surplus of $494.49, the largest yet reported, after an expenditure of $2,400.

ATHLETIC COSTS

From an income of $14,000, a total of $8,000 was spent on athletic activities on the campus. The Philharmonic Society, which presented Gilbert and Sullivan's "Gondoliers" at an expense of $1,086 closed their books by turning over a surplus of $272 to the Students' Union.

The Dramatic Society was equally as successful, having an operating profit of $420 for the term.

GOOD MANAGEMENT

The large surplus has been attributed to the larger registration this year and more efficient management of student organizations. Also there was an athletic and literary activity ticket sold to students at the first of the term which netted the union more than in former years.

The funds of the union are held in trust by the bursar of the University, but all policies of management and expenditure are handled by the students themselves.

Wife Dies While Husband's Funeral Being Held Here

Stricken with a heart attack just as the funeral service for her husband was about to begin in St. Joseph's Cathedral, Mrs. William Patrick Stanton, 46, 10133 Macdonald Drive, dropped dead in her home Wednesday afternoon.

Under a doctor's care since the death of her husband last Friday, Mrs. Stanton's condition was not considered serious, but she was not permitted to attend the services. She died while her husband's body was being taken to the Cathedral from Andrews Brothers undertaking parlors.

City Visitor

of Toronto, vice-president and general manager of Massey-Harris Co., Ltd., who said Thursday that his firm has sought to enable farmers to compete with the cheaper labor markets of Europe by constantly striving to provide Canada's farm community with machinery that will reduce operating costs. Mr. Duncan, now on an inspection tour of company units, is a guest at the Macdonald hotel.

COST-REDUCING MACHINERY HAS AIDED FARMERS

James S. Duncan, Vice-President Massey-Harris Company, In City

Cost-reducing machinery placed on the market by the Massey-Harris Company Ltd. has served to cut farm operating expenses by as much as 50 per cent in some instances, J. S. Duncan, Toronto, vice-president and general manager of the pioneer implement firm, said here Thursday.

Here to see J. A. Hilts, local manager, and other company executives, Mr. Duncan, a brisk cultured business leader who saw years of service for the firm in Europe and the Argentine prior to attaining his present distinguished position, will go to Calgary after his visit to this city.

Mr. Duncan said that business conditions appeared most encouraging, with recent weather conditions being conducive to better moisture.

SIGNIFICANT TREND

"One of the most significant trends this year is indicated by the farmer's attitude to the newer equipment embodying multiple operations. The interest which farmers have shown in the latest developments by their attendance at meetings held all over the territory, as many as 500, 600 and up to 800 being present, is evidence of their awakened realization of the importance of the various items of cost entering into the production of their crops," Mr. Duncan said.

"More and more are the efficiency standards of operation common in industrial plants finding their application on the farm, and is the farmer developing the factory manager's approach to the organizing of his operations so as to make them more profitable. As in manufacturing, so in farming, mechanization with a view to speedier and multiple operations seems to be the certain way to reduce costs.

BIGGEST INFLUENCE

"The present day tractor, with its much lower cost, greater power and greatly reduced operating costs over the earlier models, is perhaps the biggest single influence in the emphasis which is being placed on power-farming at the present time. The fact that it permits of speedier work and the use of larger units and multiple outfits enables the work to be done at the time when it counts most and makes it more profitable.

"Good examples of what has been accomplished in this line are the savings in time and cost effected by the use of the one-way disc seeder combining the cultivating and seeding in the one operation, cutting the cost by over fifty per cent, and also in the running of the small power-take-off combine, which is operated by the power of the tractor, and which has permitted the marketing of a real low cost combine which makes a real cut in the cost of harvesting.

ENCOURAGING FACTOR

"The emphasis placed on the cutting of costs by the farmer and the help he is receiving in this direction from the new equipment now available is one of the most encouraging factors in Canadian Agriculture at the present time."

"Many people in Western Canada have the impression that the Canadian farm implement industry is highly protected," said Mr. Duncan, "whereas the actual duty is only 7½ per cent, apart from certain important implements, like tractors, that are admitted free. I realize that the tariff is a very contentious matter, and I do not want to stir up any hornet's nest, but I do not think any one could consider 7½ per cent duty a "Protective" tariff. Economists and tariff experts will agree that scientifically a duty of 7½ per cent may be looked on as merely a revenue tariff rate.

DISPEL MISCONCEPTIONS

"A glance at the tariff structure in other countries should serve to dispel misconceptions as to the supposedly favored position of the Canadian implement industry. In Australia a duty of 45 per cent was followed by an absolute embargo in 1930 on a number of important implements—the embargo has been removed but the duty remains. In New Zealand the duty is 35 per cent plus 5 per cent surtax on implements similar to those being made in the country. In the Argentine a 10 per cent surtax has been made much heavier by currency depreciation and special taxes on imports; and in European countries tariff duties, quotas, exchange controls and other restrictions have rendered the importation of Canadian implements virtually impossible," Mr. Duncan concluded.

Most Edmontonians Seek Entertainment On Saturday Nights

The opposite of any other cities which are known as "pay-day" towns, Edmonton is a "Saturday night" town, it was learned from a city-wide survey conducted by a Bulletin reporter during the past several days.

A "pay-day" town is one where the citizens do their shopping, spending and whoopee-making on pay-day. Mining towns, such as Sudbury, Ontario, or Drumheller, Alberta, are "pay-day" towns.

But regardless of the day of the week on which the pay cheque arrives, most Edmontonians do the largest portion of their shopping and entertainment seeking on Saturday, it was revealed.

Department and grocery stores, theatres, taxi concerns, dance halls and restaurants all reported the greatest activity on week-ends, with Saturday always over-shadowing Friday.

"I am always busiest on Saturday and I can never seem to keep enough change on hand. Everyone wants to pay for their coffee with five and ten dollar bills," confided the charming cashier in a downtown coffee shop.

Merchants reported that there was usually a flurry of buying at the middle and first of the month, when most Edmontonians are paid but the heaviest purchasing usually takes place on Saturday. The stores cater to this trade, he said.

Theatres find that a good show will pack the house, but regardless of the feature, Saturday night crowds are always good. The same applies to dance halls—Saturday is their boom night.

MAN SEEKING DAMAGES FOR 1934 ACCIDENT

Action brought by Waldymir Sekoeta, Edmonton, in 1934 against the Snowflake Laundry and Dry Cleaners, Edward Chester, Cecil J. Carr and the Western Canada Construction Co., was revived in supreme court chambers Thursday morning when J. N. McDonald, Edmonton barrister, requested the presiding judge, Mr. Justice A. F. Ewing, to set a date for its hearing.

Sekoeta is claiming $10,000 general and $550 special damages for injuries received when hit by a truck operated by Chester and owned by the Snowflake Company. It is alleged that on March 31, 1934, the Snowflake truck and a truck owned by the Western Canada Construction Company, and operated by Cecil J. Carr, came into collision at the intersection of 99 street and 102 avenue, the former vehicle mounting the pavement and knocking the plaintiff down. He received severe injuries.

Mr. McDonald explained to the court, that the plaintiff had been unable to proceed to trial of the action owing to illness. He was now sufficiently recovered to come to court. The illness was not a result of the accident.

Sickness of both accused caused the adjournment of the hearing of charges of being in possession of a stolen safe and contents, and being in possession of house-breaking tools by night brought against Thomas Clayton and Albert Hellier in supreme court Thursday morning. Crown Prosecutor J. W. McClung informed the court the accused would not be able to appear, and asked for an adjournment until the next sittings of the criminal court.

UNEMPLOYED TO STAGE PARADE, MASS MEETING

Armed with a permit signed by Mayor J. W. Fry as police commissioner, and countersigned by Chief of Police A. G. Shute, members of the Northern Alberta Federation on Unemployment will hold a mass meeting on the Market Square on Friday, April 8, at 1:00 p.m., following which they will parade to the parliament buildings to lay their case before Premier W. Aberhart. Permit for the mass meeting and parade was given Patrick Burke, secretary of the Federation, today.

As outlined in the permit, over 1,000 unemployed men and women will take part in the demonstration, which will move from the Market Square west along 102 avenue to 101st street, thence south to 101st avenue, and west along the avenue to 109th street, where the parade will turn south and march on the parliament buildings.

Permission to carry placards with wording concerning the administration of relief and the government attitude towards relief was included in the parade permit.

The Northern Alberta Federation on Unemployment is made up of the Provincial Unemployed Married Men's Association; the Edmonton Unemployed Married Men's Association; Women's Unemployed Association; Single Men's Unemployed Association and Beverly Unemployed Association.

Lydia Tsukornyk, fourteen-year-old violinist from McCauley school, who played "The Flower Song" on the March 30 program in The Edmonton Bulletin's Search for Talent contest, won favor of readers of The Bulletin, and Wednesday evening, over CFRN, was declared winner of the seventh elimination program. Other contestants finished in the following order: Elva Pearson, Bruce Sisters, Frank McComas, Sally Kelly, Daphne Christianson, Brenda Jokshorst.

Miss Tsukornyk was presented with a handsome gift by D. A. Kirkland, manager of Henry Birks & Sons, Ltd., and will appear on the stage of the Strand theatre at the regular community sing. She was also awarded a five dollar bill by The Bulletin.

BULLETIN KIWANIS REVUE

It is imperative that contestants understand, that not only the winners of the program will be presented at the Bulletin-Kiwanis Revue when Foster Hewitt comes to Edmonton, but a good many others will also have a chance to perform, so it is necessary for them to keep their act in top notch shape, in preparation for the gala night.

"I appreciate greatly the invitation of the Edmonton Bulletin and station CFRN to say a few words over the air tonight," said Campbell Fraser, of the Kiwanis club, in addressing the radio audience, Wednesday evening. "As chairmen of the Board of the Kiwanis Children's Aid Society Home, I take this opportunity of saying thank you very much to all the children who have competed, and are still to compete, in this Search for Talent program which is being sponsored by this public-spirited paper. Thanks are due to the contestants because it will be largely through their efforts that direct benefit will come to the Kiwanis Children's Aid Society Home.

PLEASING THOUGHT

"It is a pleasing thought that the children competing have sufficient ambition to seek to develop their talents to the best advantage. It is only by such endeavor that progress along any lines is made. It may be an added incentive to some children who are considering whether or not they will compete in this particular program, if it is suggested that by their doing so and helping to make the Search for Talent enterprise a success, they will be assisting some child or children less fortunate than themselves.

"I extend, therefore, my good wishes to all the children who have, up to this date, done their part in this competition. Everyone cannot be a winner but at least every child can feel that his or her efforts, whether win or lose, will help someone in less fortunate circumstances."

LUCKY WINNERS

Holders of the lucky ballots, which were drawn from the lot received during the past week; and who will receive a two-dollar bill from The Bulletin are: Mrs. C. Driscoll, 9542 106 avenue; Mrs. A. H. Richards, 7315 105 street; Mrs. G. Spelman, 11424 105 avenue; Miss K. Smith, 227 General hospital; O. L. Dempsey, 11816 90 street.

Carrier salesmen whose names appeared at the bottom of the winning ballots, who will be guests of Manager W. J. Long of the Rialto theatre are: Jim O'Neil, Peter Heron, Vivian Bell, William Shaw, Melvin Backstrom.

Awards Made By Students' Union

Completing the list of honorary awards made by the Students' Union of the University of Alberta, "Executive A" awards were made Wednesday afternoon at the final meeting of the union for the present term, with six men receiving the pins.

Archie McEwen, retiring president of the council topped the list, with Maclean Jones, treasurer of the union, and an active student in the Law Club receiving the honor also.

Duncan Campbell, editor-in-chief of the Gateway, and president of the History Club, George Ross, president of the Senior Class and Philharmonic Society, Hugh John McDonald, president of the Debating Society and law representative on the students' council last year also received pins.

Kenneth McKenzie, new secretary of the Students' Union and past president of the Literary Society completed the list.

Edmonton bank clearings for the week ending Thursday, April 7, totalled $4,428,301.24, according to the local clearing house. Figures for the corresponding week last year were $4,597,181.24.

Thrills at Becher's Brook as Battleship Triumphed

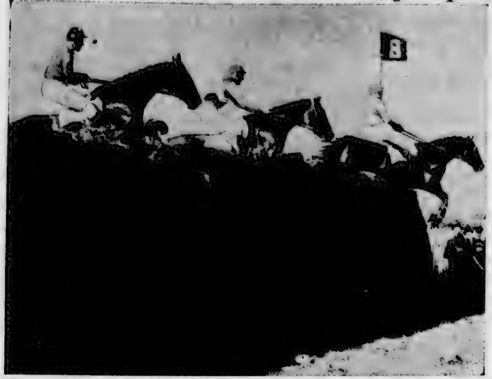
American Horse Leads Way Up and . . . Over Aintree's Famed Jump . . . Leaving Others Behind



Soaring like a Pegasus, the American-bred, American-owned horse Battleship leads the way over the dangerous Becher's Brook jump in the recent Grand National Steeplechase at Aintree, England. The photo shows Battleship (extreme right), who won this year's running of the English turf classic, clearing the jump ahead of Royal Danieli, who came in second, and Delachance.

Horse-spilling, man-maiming Becher's Brook jump on the Grand National Steeplechase course at Aintree, England, always furnishes its quota of thrills. Here is one in the recent running of the turf classic, when two horses collided on clearing this hurdle. This year's Grand National was won by Battleship, a rank 40 to 1 outsider, the first American-bred horse to take the event.

OPERA GIVEN WARM PRAISE IN VANCOUVER

San Carlo Company Enthusiastically Received In Coast City

When the San Carlo Opera Company, which opens at the Empire on Thursday night, appeared in Vancouver, musical critics of the coast were enthusiastic in their praise.

Writing of the opening offering of "Aida" in the Vancouver Sun, Stanley Bligh, well known critic, gave his impressions as follows:

It was by far the best presentation of this work that the San Carlo has ever given in Vancouver. The soloists were in splendid voice, and there was a praise-worthy unanimity in the ensemble work.

One feels that the present personnel of the company is much superior in every way, and the result festive enthusiasm of the large audience.

BIANCA SAROYA

Bianca Saroya, in the title role, sang with dramatic eloquence. The clarity and pureness of her soprano voice, combined with musical and histrionic intelligence, created an impression of this role that was intensely satisfying.

Maru Castagna, new to Vancouver, sang the part of Amneris with pronounced success. To a vital personality she added a voice of resonant, pleasing quality. Her acting was effective and unforced.

The part of Radames was taken by Enrico Mancinella, another newcomer. He gave a very good portrayal, and revealed a voice of good timbre and pure quality.

GREAT HEIGHTS

Mostyn Thomas, as Amonasro, fully upheld the reputation he has gained by his round and resonant singing. Both vocally and in characterization his work carried conviction.

The rich, sonorous voice of Harold Kravitt admirably suited the part of Ramfis, the high priest. Natale Cervi, as the King of Egypt, fittingly completed a very fine cast.

The splendid work of the soloists was fully equalled by the chorus and orchestra. In the colorful scene of the second act all rose to great heights, evoking salvos of applause.

Carlo Peroni, who conducted, was accorded a tremendous ovation. At all times he had the orchestra under complete control, and with a fine balance of tone, always in complete accord with the singers.

MAGNIFICENT SETTINGS

The magnificent stage settings, freshness of the colorful costumes, and the clever manipulation of lighting effects added greatly to a noteworthy performance.

The Ballet, with Mlle. Lydia Arlova, premiere danseuse, and M. Lucian, premier dancer, enhanced the opera with their incidental dances.

SERUM NOW IS ONLY HOPE OF MEDIC FORCES

Physicians To Depend On Convalescent Serum To Curb Disease

NEW YORK, April 7—The medical profession faces the infantile paralysis expected this summer with its new ammunition, protective nasal sprays and vaccines, rated as failures.

It is thrown back, the American College of Physicians was told by Dr. John A. Kolmar of Philadelphia, one of the foremost infantile paralysis authorities, on the use of convalescent serum.

IS BEST HOPE

There has never yet, said Dr. Dolmar, been adequate statistical evidence that the convalescent serum is either effective or ineffective. But the serum at present is the best hope of combatting the paralysis.

He said he believes the serum will prove a partial protection. He cited its use in 1936 in Manitoba, where he said the serum apparently reduced paralysis about 50 per cent.

The latest nasal spray, zinc sulphate, which worked well on monkeys at Stanford university, he said failed to prove its value when four doctors tried it last summer during a Toronto outbreak. There is still, he added, a little hope for this spray if given by a physician with a catheter, a method the public cannot use on itself.

Dr. Kolmar, one of the originators of vaccines for infantile paralysis, said that one, tried on 11,000 children had caused nine cases of the disease.

LOVE LAUGHS AT THE DOCTOR

By Elinore Cowan Stone

THE agony in her wrenched shoulder had subsided into dull ache, and Hilda's face swam into focus out of the cloud above where Mark's face had been. . . . There seemed now to be just she and Hilda. . . So that was why Hilda was always reading books about Tibet. . . Hilda was going to marry a flying fool in Tibet who cut up cosmic rays for a living, or was it? Her thougths refused to arrange themselves; but there was one thing Hilda had just said—

"I wish you'd tell me," she asked giddily, closing her eyes, "how anyone has a chance at a man she—can't catch alone for—five minutes at a time?"

Hilda giggled; and Constance found the giggle annoying. All the grievances of the past days—combined with the pain in her shoulder—swam in upon her, demanding her immediate expression.

"Oh, it's easy enough for you to laugh," she said peevishly. "You don't want him. . . . And anyhow, he talks to you. But he never even looks at me. . . . Or if he does only as if I were something little and awfully funny on a slide."

"But, Connie dear," Hilda said, "you are little—and just now you are awfully funny. Don't you recognize defense mechanism when you see it? . . . Oh, you two! I don't know which of you is the most unutterable idiot."

Then, after a moment, Hilda did not seem to be there any more. But there was still, Constance found, that warm, rough surface under her cheek; and there were arms about her—warm and close and comfortable.

Mark's voice said, very close to her ear. "Connie darling, this ought not to be necessary — you must have known from the beginning that I wanted to—but it's customary, I believe. . . . Will you marry me, and give yourself something to laugh at for the rest of your life?"

Her head was clearing now. . . . Of course this might all be really happening, but—

"Darling," she asked shakily into his coat collar, "would you mind just pinching me—or something? . . . People do imagine things sometimes after they've bumped their heads, don't they?"

"I don't hold with pinching," he said, "but—"

He did not pinch her; but he did kiss her very satisfactorily—on her wet eyes, and then on her lips.

"What I don't understand," Constance said shakily, "is why you didn't do that weeks ago."

"With you doing Camilla Wynne and laughing up your sleeve at me every time I tried to talk sense to you—and that beautiful blond boy hovering in the background? I'm not so sure now—"

"Then you're too blind to be practicing medicine. Derek? Why, for weeks Derek's been just—just another stand-in."

After another few moments he said briskly, "Do you know what I'm going to do now?"

"Don't tell me," Constance cut in. "I've been expecting it. You're going to send me to bed because I've got a difficult—"

"You've got worse than that ahead of you—God help you!—if you're going to marry a—now what are you laughing about?"

"Oh, nothing," Constance told him, "except—I was just wondering if I'm going to have to break my neck every time I want a few minutes alone with you."

(THE END)

Opera Patrons . . .

Management of the Empire Theatre wishes to draw the attention to seat-holders to the fact that all must be seated when the curtain rises at 8:15 sharp each evening during the three-day engagement of the San Carlo Opera Company.

This is a rule that will be strictly enforced. No person will be seated after the opening chorus starts. This means that arrival at the Empire should take place at least ten minutes prior to curtain time. Extra ushers have been engaged to facilitate quick seating. The San Carlo Company bring their own orchestra and ballet, in addition to a cast of high-class opera singers. XXX

Duplessis Declared Following In Wake Of Stalin Tactics

OTTAWA, April 7.—In order to hold his power in the province of Quebec Premier Maurice Duplessis is following the tactics of Stalin in Russia, Edouard Lacroix, one-time supporter of Mr. Duplessis' Union Nationale movement, declared in the house of Commons Wednesday.

Liberal member for Beauce and prominent Quebec lumberman, Mr. Lacroix spoke on a question of privilege in reply to statements made before the public accounts committee of the Quebec legislature to the effect he owed penalties to the provincial government for infractions of timber regulations and had unlawfully exported wood from Quebec forests into the state of Maine. His answer was a flat denial.

FINES AND PENALTIES

The Quebec premier had alleged he owed $117,991 and penalties for cutting under-sized trees. He had paid a total of $244,601 including fines, although he considered the charges unjust.

The Quebec premier had also said Mr. Lacroix wanted to be minister of lands and forests in Quebec. Had he wished to become a minister he could have done so because the position was offered to him.

"Mr. Speaker," he declared, "I wish to protest because my case is similar to those of many other Canadians in my province and because, in order to conserve his power, Mr. Duplessis in our province, is following the tactics of Stalin in Russia. Stalin kills; Duplessis smears." . . .

MEMBERS OBJECT

Opposition members objected to the Lacroix statement which was made in French on the ground it was out of order and related wholly to matters under discussion in the Quebec legislature but the Speaker ruled he might make his statement after Prime Minister Mackenzie King and Hon. Ernest Lapointe, minister of justice supported his right.

Later Mr. Lacroix told reporters had the Speaker refused him the right to speak he would have resigned his seat at once.

Looking Them Over

The Other Side

Battleship

SOMEHOW I can't get very enthused about Judge Landis' recent drive in his long war against what he calls "syndicate baseball"—the farm system as developed by the St. Louis Cardinals. It is true that the baseball czar made something like 100 minor league players into free agents by declaring the Cardinal strings on them null and void. It is also true that his action will undoubtedly result in stricter attention being paid to the recording of player contracts and the keeping of rules and regulations.

However, the major league clubs with the most money will always have the most and best players . . . if those clubs have executives that know what it is all about. The gold-plated Yawkey venture in Boston is a sad case of a wealthy club without astute executives.

Landis bases his opposition to baseball chains on the grounds that such organizations hog all the worthwhile players in the country and make it mighty tough for clubs without an expensive farm system to find men. Furthermore, the judge contends that no attempt should be made to keep baseball alive where it will not pay a profit of its own accord. This contention seems strange in view of the fact that scores of major and fast minor league outfits often fail to show profits and would go out of business if they didn't have big money backing them for the sake of sport.

Farm Clubs Brought Game Back

TODAY there are more leagues and clubs playing organized baseball than ever before in the history of the continent. That is largely the result of a decision by the [illegible] to spend more money on the minors, a decision reached several years ago when the game had fallen to a low ebb and the outlook was dismal. The Cardinals alone control 30 clubs. The Yankees, Detroit, Red Sox and [illegible] have extensive farm systems [illegible]. Other major clubs have smaller feeder chains.

Drawing a salary of $60,000 a year and surrounded by big money, Judge Landis may be forgetting that hundreds of cities in both the United States and Canada would be without baseball if it were not for the financial help and player supply they get from some of the majors.

Of course the commissioner's recent attack on the Cardinal management was directed at [illegible] of tying up players, yet the [illegible] farm system. He seems to be convinced that smaller clubs could make just as much money from player sales [illegible] in the way of bonuses from parent [illegible] of selling a couple of players [illegible] can't be sure of such [illegible] is guaranteed on the farm system.

For a horse 11 years old, that seems to be quite a bit of stamina.

Manager Pie Traynor Figures Pittsburgh Pirates Best Baseball Club Has Ever Had In His Career

By JOHN BEEKMAN
Special Bulletin Sport Writer

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif., April 7—Not since 1927 has Pittsburgh had a pennant winner, but you can take the word of Pie Traynor, ever optimistic manager of the Bucs, that things will be different this year.

"If our pitching holds up the way it has so far this spring, Pittsburgh will have the best club it has had in my four years as manager," the Smoky City pilot promises.

"We have three good rookies on hand to fill out the mound staff and with Johnny Rizzo providing some much needed punch in the outfield there's no reason to suppose that we can't improve on last season's showing."

That seems to sum up the situation effectively, for the infield is taking care of itself at last and the Brothers Waner have given every indication that they'll carry on every bit as effectively as last season when Paul wound up with a batting average of .354, good enough for fourth place, and Lloyd came in with .330 to rank tenth.

Three spots in the infield appear all sewed up, leaving only third base open to competition.

"I still haven't made up my mind about Bill Brubaker and Lee Handley," Traynor explained. "I've put Handley with Bill because I don't want to take any chances on being caught short."

SUHR IN FINE SHAPE

"Young will handle second base. He isn't as strong a hitter as Handley but he can handle himself a lot faster on double plays. Handley was a third sacker before he came to us and seems to feel more at home there.

"Brubaker was coming fast at the close of last season and of course if he hits that stride again, I'll keep him in there.

Gus Suhr is a fixture at first. [illegible] spring games and should have a big year.

Woody Jensen, who is experimenting at first base, has been replaced in the outfield by Johnny Rizzo, a graduate from Columbus. The Pirates paid the St. Louis Cardinals $25,000 in cash and traded Catcher Tommy Padden, Outfielder Bud Hafey and First Baseman Bernard Cobb for the slugging right-hander.

KEN HEINTZELMAN

STRICTLY A HITTER

Rizzo batted third in the American Association last year with an average of .358 as well as hitting in 36 consecutive games. He should make a real mate for the Waner brothers if he comes through as expected.

John Dickshot will be kept as a utility man for the outfield.

The Pirates are carrying 13 twirlers, nine of whom were with the club last year. Veterans are Cy Blanton, who won 14 and lost 12; Russ Bauers, who took 13 and dropped but six; Joe Bowman, with eight and eight; Ed Brandt, who won 11 while losing 10; Mace Brown, who finished with seven [illegible] Bill Swift, who won nine and lost 10; Jim Tobin, six and three, and Ken Heintzelman, who came up from Knoxville late in the year.

Newcomers are Bob Klinger, up from Sacramento in the Pacific Coast League where he won 19 and lost 13; Southpaw Marvin Duke, winner of 21 games for Montreal while dropping but eight; Truett Sewell, big right-hander who won 16 and lost 12 for Buffalo, and Bill Clemensen, up from Hutchinson, Kansas, where on option he won 16 and lost 10.

The enthusiastic Pie was hopeful that one or even two of this quartet would come through with colors flying.

"It will furnish just the punch we need, if just one of them develops into another Bauers," Traynor explained. "I'm figuring on Bauers and Jim Tobin as regulars this year."

Bauers, a quiet right-hander, was the big noise among the Pirate rookies last year, and with an impact tooth and a couple of troublesome tonsils taken care of, is counted on to better his 13 victories of 1937.

No team is complete without a capable backstop and in Al Todd the Pirates are exceptionally fortunate. Todd, if anything, is better than he was last season when he caught in 128 games, hit .307 and led all rivals in putouts, total chances, assists, and double plays.

Behind Todd is Ray Berres, who is capable of filling Todd's shoes in respectable fashion. Berres caught 105 contests for Brooklyn in 1936 and was the leading backstop in the American Association last year.

City Soccer Protests Interference by A.F.A.

VIGOROUS protest against what was characterized as a high-handed attempt by the Alberta Football Association to chisel in on one of the few opportunities Edmonton soccer has of making a little profit were written into the records at the annual general meeting of the Edmonton District Football Association.

This charge arose out of correspondence on the proposed visit here in May of Islington Corinthians—the famous all-stars from London, England.

The letters presented to the meeting by the secretary showed that initial arrangements for the visit of the Corinthians had been made directly with Sam Davidson, secretary of the Dominion Football Association. The deal required the Edmonton Association to take full responsibility for staging the game and in return for this it would get any profits that accrued.

Recently a letter was received from officials of the Alberta Football Association in Calgary in which they announced that the A.F.A. would take charge of the Corinthians' game in Edmonton, send a Calgary man here to show Edmonton officials how to do it [illegible] and take 75 per cent of the profits. All the actual work would be done by Edmonton officials, however, and in return for this 25 per cent of the profits would be given them.

Members of the Edmonton District Association roundly denounced the Alberta Football Association's letter as a slight and insult to soccer officials here. It was pointed out that only once has Edmonton failed to show a profit on a game with a [illegible] which the Calgary "experts" could [illegible]

Warwickshire Will Still Have Services Of Noted Cricketer

BIRMINGHAM, Eng., April 7.—R. E. S. Wyatt, noted cricketer and former England captain, stated Wednesday he would play for Warwickshire during the coming season. Warwickshire club at its annual meeting a week ago decided to replace Wyatt as captain by Peter Cranmer, better known as a rugby international.

For some months reports have had it that Wyatt, one of the mainstays of the Warwickshire county team for many years, might join Surrey, for which he has a birth qualification. Announcing some months ago that Cranmer would be recommended for the captaincy, the Warwickshire committee declared the club would benefit by a change.

Peace River Plans Organizing Its Own Curling Association

Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

GRANDE PRAIRIE, April 7—At the annual meeting of the Grande Prairie Curling club, held recently, a committee was named to interview all other curling clubs in the Peace River country with a view of forming a Northern Alberta Curling association. This was to be the first step towards sending an entrant into the annual Macdonald Brier curling playdowns. It was felt that with about 125 rinks in the Peace River, a strong team could be found in the playoffs to send east.

Officers elected for the coming year were: President, N. H. Swallow; vice-president, A. M. Dalgleish; executive members, George Vag', J. Shields, W. G. Orr, R. C. Waddell, H. W. Archibald, M. F. Lewis. Dr. L. J. O'Brien and F. Crummy were named honorary presidents.

Plans for a new and much larger rink were under discussion but the final plans were left in the hands of the executive.

Aces Overwhelmed by Ontario Champs 5-2

Connie Brown Leads Flyers' Return To Form With Three Goals; Goalie Bolduc Stars For Aces

OTTAWA, April 7.—Cornwall Flyers turned on Quebec Aces with a sudden reversal of form last night to trim their conquerors of two days ago by 5-2 and even the Eastern Canada Allan cup finals at one game each in the two-of-three series.

Aces seemed to feel the effects of the hard bumping by Flyers after the first period, which ended with the score 2-1 in their favor and Cornwall outplayed them at every stage of the game after the first period.

Paced by Conny Brown, Flyers skated Quebec into the ice with speed and only the spectacular work of goalie Alex Bolduc of Quebec prevented them from piling up a larger score. Brown's three goals and his all-round playing ability carried Flyers to victory, but every man turned in a brilliant effort.

Heavy favorites to take the eastern title in straight games, Aces were not in the picture at any time after Pete Martin's goal at 13:02 of the initial period. Aces scored again three minutes later but goalie Lloyd Ferras of Cornwall looked bad on both shots.

Brown got his first goal while Les Brennan and Johnny Taugher of Aces were in the penalty box with Mike McMahon of Flyers just before the first rest.

BROWN'S SECOND

Even while they were still fighting for the equalizer, Flyers seemed assured of ultimate victory in the manner in which they outplayed Aces continuously. Brown got his second goal at 10:53 on a pass from McMahon and McLelland put Cornwall ahead five minutes later after taking a relay from Gillie.

WALK-AWAY

The third period was a walk-away for Cornwall. They went after goals from the start and Bolduc gave a marvellous exhibition of blocking. The veteran kept the score down as Flyers skated through the apparently winded Aces' rearguard.

Brown, MacDonald and McMahon combined to beat the Quebec defence and Brown netted the puck for his third goal.

Farrand Gillie, who played an outstanding game on the flyers' defence with a sweeping pokecheck, got the last goal. He took passes from Brown and Meloche to beat Bolduc after the Quebec goalie stopped a half dozen close-in shots.

Aces, who won the first game 6-3 in Montreal Monday, were beaten at their own game. They started bodying all over the ice and Cornwall immediately followed suit.

LINEUPS

Quebec—Bolduc; Brennan, Taugher; Tondreau; Martin, Stangle, Saint-Gaultier. Wing, McIntyre, Perrault, O'Connell, McKinnon.

Turfdom Bids High for Race Classic of Year

NEW YORK, April 7.—War Admiral and Seabiscuit, rivals for United States thoroughbred honors, faced an opportunity Wednesday to match strides this season, with $100,000 at stake on each occasion, as a nation-wide bidding boomed for the horse-racing "natural" of 1938.

On top of negotiations for a $100,000 match race this fall at Belmont Park, initiated by the New York State Racing Association, Chicago's Arlington Park has put forward a definite offer of a $100,000 purse for a race in July.

The Chicago offer, made through John D. Hertz, specified Maxwell Howard's Stagehand, victor over Seabiscuit by a nose in the $100,000 Santa Anita handicap last month, would be invited to make it a three-cornered test at Arlington if Stagehand wins the Kentucky Derby.

Arlington proposed a 1¼ mile race at weight for age. Under this scale for July, War Admiral and Seabiscuit would pick up 126 pounds and Stagehand, 114. The proposad Arlington date conflicts with Seabiscuit's engagement in the $50,000 Hollywood handicap at the new Inglewood, Cal., track, July 16.

War Admiral, unbeaten since his two-year-old campaign, has earned $230,625 and Seabiscuit, $239,885. The two have never met.

Bob Card Captures Students' Bonspiel

GRANDE PRAIRIE, April 7.—Refusing to let a bit of water on the ice daunt them, twenty-six student rinks completed their annual curling bonspiel Saturday. The ice was soft most of the time in spite of the fact that the young high school pupils started their games at 6.30 a.m.

Winners in the various events were: Grand Challenge, Bob Card, who defeated Jim Esterbrook 8-2 in the final game; consolation, Newton, winning 3-2 over Bill Card for that event.

DOMINION BASKETBALL FINALS TO BE PLAYED HERE

Grads Meet Toronto Quintet on April 23

Arena To Be Made Ready For Game Following Horse Show; Grads Will Practice Monday Night

Official announcement was made Tuesday that the ladies' Canadian basketball finals will be held in Edmonton, beginning on Saturday, April 23, and continuing every second day until one of the competing teams has three victories to its credit. The two finalists are officially announced as the Edmonton Grads and the Toronto "British Consols".

The forthcoming visit of the Toronto team will be the first from that city during the last five years. In 1933 the Toronto Ladies' Athletic Club contested the Dominion finals against the Grads, but since that time the Ontario championship has been dominated by the Windsor Alumnae girls.

Not a single member of the Toronto team has ever played in Edmonton, so that there is no way of estimating the strength of the eastern winners in comparison with other teams. They have not lost a game this season, and that in the eastern finals they defeated the Montreal representatives 55 to 20, and 55 to 19. They are described as much bigger than the average team, and this factor had much to do with the downfall of the Montreal quintet.

PRACTICE MONDAY

Immediately following the horse show which is now being held at the arena, work of installing the huge playing floor will begin, and it is expected that it will be in readiness for the Grads' usual semi-weekly practice on Monday night. It is probable that the girls will work out against a boys' team, and the railbirds will doubtless be out in force to give the 1938 Grad machine the once-over.

GRADS SMALL

Not only is this year's team particularly small in point of size, but also small in numbers, only seven players being eligible for the playoffs. In subsequent games against American teams, the Grads will be able to call upon any member of the Gradettes should they desire to do so.

While the seat sale for the Toronto series will not open for some days, advance orders may be left at Mike's.

Power Debate Is Adjourned

OTTAWA, April 7.—The fate of the government's bill to vest parliament with authority to issue licenses for the export of hydro electric power was undecided last night, although strong disapproval of its provisions prevailed in the Senate banking committee.

Averting possibility of its immediate injection, Senator Raoul Dandurand, government leader, Wednesday moved adjournment of further consideration until the Upper House resumes after Easter.

Hardwick Ready To Oust C.A.A.U. From Hoop Game

VANCOUVER, April 7.—The Canadian Amateur Basketball Association is seeking affiliation with the International Basketball Federation in Rome, Walter Hardwick, president of the Canadian Association said here last night.

Hardwick said that he had mailed officials of the International organization a 200-page [illegible] ing the set-up of the C.A.B.A. and asking that it be recognized as the official basketball controlling body in Canada.

At present the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada, from which the C.A.B.A. broke away nearly two years ago, was until January 1 the only Canadian organization recognized by the Federation.

Hardwick explained, however, that the Federation had written him requesting that he apply for affiliation before May 1 giving references and qualificatons.

"Its the final nail in the A.A.U. coffin as far as the hoop game in Canada is concerned," Hardwick commented.

Smythe Says Toronto Must Get Win Tonight

TORONTO, April 7.—All was peaceful on the troubled Toronto hockey front today as the crippled Chicago Black Hawks, masters of the situation for the present at least, and Toronto Maple Leafs readied for resumption of the Stanley Cup final.

Peace overtures were being extended freely by Chicago's Bill Stewart and Toronto's Conny Smythe, principals in the main bout of the unscheduled fisticuffs before Hawks made their gallant stand for a 3-1 victory in the series opener Monday night.

ALL FORGOTTEN

"As far as I am concerned the fights are all forgotten," said Smythe and the Chicago manager echoed the statement.

"It was just one of those things that crop up in the heat of a moment," Stewart added.

But Smythe was in a pessimistic as well as a forgiving mood. "If we don't win tonight we won't win the cup," the Leaf boss predicted gloomily. "Tying the series will help but if we lose that second game I guess we just aren't good enough."

Many were ready to agree with Smythe on the basis of play in the opening game of the best-of-five series. Hawks fought from behind for a clear edge with Mike Karakas, their regular goalkeeper on the sidelines and Mush Marsh, first-string right wing, unable to play after the first period.

MARCH, KARAKAS OUT

Neither March nor Karakas, sent to Chicago Wednesday for hospital treatment of respective groin and toe injuries, will be able to play until the third game in Chicago Sunday night. Karakas may not be ready even then and Alfie Moore, centre of the storm that led to the fist fight and hero of the Hawk victory, will continue to goal for Chicago until Karakas is ready.

There were no hurts among the shocked Leafs, rushed back to their Preston, Ont., training quarters after the game.

"We got a bad game out of our system," Coach Dick Irvin commented. "Hawks played real hockey, we didn't. That was the real difference."

Leafs, 2-1 favorites to win the first game, still were 8-5 to take the second though odds on the series, as high as 3-1 Wednesday, shrunk to even money. The teams will move to Chicago for the third game Sunday night with a fourth, if necessary, also in Chicago. If the series goes the limit the final game will be played in Toronto next Thursday night.

Implement Probe Cost Stated $23,567

OTTAWA, April 7—Total cost of the inquiry into farm implement prices by parliamentary committee since March 2, 1936, was $23,567, according to a return tabled Wednesday by Secretary of State Fernand Rinfret on motion by T. C. Douglas (C.C.F.-Weyburn).

Bulk of this amount, representing salaries, living allowances and expenses, went to three men. Walter J. Macdonald of Winnipeg received $9,100, R. T. Graham of Swift Current, Sask., $8,755 and F. J. Tibbs of Winnipeg $2,114.

Verne Boastfully Claims He Will Thump Jacobsen

For weeks Edmonton's wrestling fans have been trotting to the Memorial Hall on Friday nights with high hopes of seeing that villainous outlaw of the grappling profession, Oscar Mossfeldt, get his ears pinned back. And for weeks they have slowly plodded their way back home wild with anger as Ossie's rough tactics and despairing of ever seeing the mat terror vanquished.

But things look less rosy for Wee Oscar this week for when he climbs through the ropes he will be meeting none other than Dave Miller from Spokane, Washington. One of the outstanding middleweights in the United States, Dave is the fast, clean type of wrestler who is perfectly capable of looking after himself in the squared circle. For friend Ossie it marks one of the most important points in his career. He has the chance to prove that he rates a position well up in the wrestling profession or the ranking of an "also ran." He will be out with both fists ready.

"Say did you see the way I made that guy Cliff Parker howl last week," grinned Johnny Verne last night. "I had the poor kid crying like a baby," he continued complacently. "And boy that's nothing to what I'll do to this fellow Jacobsen; any fellow that referees is a sissy and sissies are right up my alley," he went on boastfully.

Johnny made the tears stream down Parker's cheeks last week all right but he did it with an onion, then pinned his helpless opponent to the canvas for the deciding fall. Larry Jacobsen, a former Dominion amateur wrestling champion and one of the cleverest men in the ring today was very calm about the whole thing, when informed of Verne's remarks.

"He'll need a whole vegetable garden and then some if he wants to win Friday night," was the cool rejoinder and sauntered off.

The other half of the semi-windup brings that coast wrestler, Billy Meyers against Maurice DeBlieck of Edmonton. Rough-house Billy has been promised a rousing reception from our Maurice.

In the opening bout of the evening, Calgary's Darby Melnick returns to meet curly-haired Cliff Parker.

Referee Louie Lavoie will start off the proceedings at 8:30.

Such places as Egg Island, Sandwich Bay, Plum Pudding Island, and Roast Beef Island, are located off the Orange river, Southern Africa.

Smoke Eaters' Coach Spews Fire at C.A.H.A.

CALGARY, April 7.—Coach Elmer (Pipe) Piper of the Trail Smoke Eaters thinks the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association officials may be trying to give his squad the "run-around."

"Pipe" would have liked to finish the western Canada Allan Cup hockey finals in Calgary and was not in favor of making the long train journey to Saskatoon for the third match Friday night.

RUN AROUND?

"What are they trying to do?" he asked as he boarded the train with his team for the northern Saskatchewan city last night. "Give us the run-around so we won't be any good for the Canadian playoffs?

"Since eliminating Calgary Rangers we have had to travel to Saskatoon and Edmonton and now we are forced against our own wishes to return to Saskatoon. It's a good job my players are young and in good physical condition."

Two up on the Port Arthur Bearcats, the crew from the smelter town need only a win at Saskatoon to take the western final.

"We're not eliminated yet," shouted Coach "Phat" Wilson of hte Bearcats as his train pulled out last night. "I look for a complete reversal of form on the smaller ice surface at Saskatoon. If the Bearcats click Friday night they stand a good chance for final victory."

The Smoke Eaters left via Canadian National Railways at 8:00 o'clock and 10 minutes later the Bearcats, travelling Canadian Pacific Railway, headed for Saskatoon.

Hold-Up Alarm Just Mistake

MONTREAL, April 7.—All available police cars and patrolmen converged Wednesday on the Banque Canadienne Nationale on St. James street. As the first contingent of police rushed in with drawn guns looking for the holdup men, a red-faced clerk announced he had sounded the emergency alarm by mistake.

Back Again

The burnt boy may dread the fire, but the injured lady does not dread the scene of the injury. Mrs. Kay Petre, above, feminine automobile racer, was seriously injured in a crash at the Brooklands, England, track last year, but here she is back again at the same track, ready for this season's races.

QUEBEC SPEAKER REQUESTS CHAIR HOUSE SOUVENIR

QUEBEC, April 7—Liberal Leader T. D. Bouchard asked the Quebec legislature last night to give him the present speaker's throne as a "souvenir," he said that according to tradition he had been entitled to take the big $700 chair home in 1935 when he concluded a seven-year term as speaker of the lower house, but his "rights had been overlooked." Premier Duplessis announced the legislative assembly would grant the Liberal chief's request.

Roosevelt Will Urge Work Plan: Cost Billion-Half

WASHINGTON, April 7.—A high United States administration official said today President Roosevelt contemplates recommending to congress a $1,500,000,000 public works program in a new recovery drive to end the recession, restore employment and revitalize the nation's business.

The new public works program plan, it was learned authoritatively, calls for federal bond issues to raise te $1,500,000,000. This money in turn would be lent to cities, counties and other political subdivisions to finance local building programs.

German Secret Service Giving Britain Unrest

LONDON, April 7.—German secret police activities in Great Britain are creating uneasiness. Allegations accumulate that the Gestapo are working through German servant girls employed in the homes of British officers, through compulsory registration at German consulates of Germans and Austrians resident in Great Britain.

Legal Notices—

PUBLIC NOTICE

Call for Applications for Chalet or Hotel Concession Near Athabasca Glacier on the Banff-Jasper Highway, Jasper National Park.

Applications addressed to the Controller, National Parks Bureau, Department of Mines and Resources, Ottawa, will be received up to 12 o'clock noon on Monday, April 25th, 1938 for a seasonal licence to erect and operate a hotel or chalet on any one of the three sites selected by the Park Superintendent in the vicinity of Athabaska Glacier in the Jasper National Park, particulars of which can be obtained from the Park Superintendent.

The chalet or hotel shall consist of a well constructed building according to plans approved by the Department.

The building must have at least ten (10) bedrooms with a suitable lounge and dining room and should be so designed that suitable additions for accommodation may be made from time to time when the Minister of Mines and Resources considers the demand for accommodation at this point warrants such additions. The building must be erected during the season of 1938 and be fully equipped and ready for operation during the season of 1939.

No other applications for hotel or chalet sites within one (1) mile of the Banff-Jasper Highway for a distance of ten (10) miles on either side of the site of said chalet or hotel will be accepted for a period of five (5) years from the date of the acceptance of the said application for a hotel concession at the Athabaska Glacier. It shall be provided however, that during the said five (5) year period failure on the part of the licensee to cater to the needs of all the tourists without discrimination and in a manner satisfactory to the Park Superintendent shall constitute sufficient grounds to render said licence liable to cancellation and the forfeiture by the Licensee of all rights and privileges in connection therewith, or the Department may allow other concessions in the vicinity.

In addition to the right to a licence for a hotel concession at said point the licensee will be allowed to provide a suitable service station and garage to serve the travelling motorists and will also be given a store licence to sell supplies to tourists.

All prices charged for meals, accommodation or other services or commodities shall be subject to the approval of the Minister.

Each applicant must furnish a detailed statement covering the following:

(a) A short description of the chalet he is prepared to erect and equip. Details of the furnishings should be given with the total estimated value of building and equipment.

(b) An outline of his financial ability to construct and properly equip such a chalet.

(c) A statement of his experience and training which would qualify him to successfully operate such a chalet or hotel in a National Park.

The license for the site shall be for a term of twenty-one (21) years and the annual license fee will be Ten Dollars ($10.00) per acre.

The necessary business licenses will be issued upon payment of the usual license fees as prescribed in the National Parks Regulations respecting Businesses, Trades and Callings.

It is proposed to select from the applicants the one whose plans provide for a chalet or hotel development, together with the necessary equipment, most in harmony with the high quality of the natural setting of the site.

The applicant's qualifications and experience in organizing and operating a concession of this nature will be a factor in determining the award of the concession.

COUNCIL URGED INSTAL POLICE SIGNAL SYSTEM

proposed installation of a $25,000 signal system which was rejected by burgesses in the November, 1937, municipal elections when they defeated the necessary money bylaw.

Commissioner Robert J. Gibb explained following the committee's meeting that the $25,000 project would have provided an extensive signal system to cover all parts of the city.

32 CALL BOXES

The alternative plan requiring an expenditure of only $4,500, plus an annnual maintenance cost of $1,385, would provide 32 call boxes in the city's central districts only.

In a report to the committee, Supt. Robert Christie, of the telephone department, said the proposed supervisory police signal system would provide the following features:

1—Direct telephonic communication between patrolmen and police headquarters.

2—Means of connecting patrolmen with the chief constable or other executive officers for communication purposes.

3—A method of signalling patrolmen by means of flashing lamp signals, either singly or in groups, when spoken communication is required.

In their report to the finance committee Wednesday, commissioners stated that Police Chief A. G. Shute had communicated with 30 Canadian and American cities asking for information as to the type of communication equipment used by police departments in those cities. Replies were contained in an extensive compilation prepared for the information of aldermen.

RADIO FAVORED

"This tabulation shows a distinct leaning towards the radio communication in preference to any other signal system, though all recommend that a supervisory system somewhat along the lines of our present obsolete system is also very important," commissioners reported.

"Supt. Christie has looked into the matter closely and his report shows that with the aid of some new equipment as well as some old equipment which he has in stock, he can produce a telephone call system for the central district which will be satisfactory to the chief of police.

$4,500 COST

"The immediate cost involved in this supervisory system is about $4,500. It is suggested that this be built by the telephone department and charged to current reserve and that they (telephone department) charge the police department an annual rental of $1,385 to cover maintenance, use of cables, etc.

"In regard to the radio equipment, the cost for a central station and three cars is set at say $7,300 for medium frequency equipment and $8,500 for ultra high frequency equipment. If control stations are required this cost will be extra."

While advocating the installation of the signal system, the committee recommended that the use of radio be considered at a later date.

ONE-WAY SYSTEM

In a report to city commissioners, Police Chief Shute pointed out that Winnipeg and Vancouver used one-way radio systems which enabled police headquarters to give instruction to radio-equipped patrol cars, but which does not provide for replies being received from the cars.

Vancouver, Chief Shute explained, was considering adopting the two-way radio which would provide for the broadcasting of instructions to patrol cars and also replies. The coast city has 30 police cars and 12 motorcycles equipped with radio.

WANTS RADIO

Chief Shute stated he favored two-way radio equipment being installed in five cars and the central station at a cost of approximately $8,000. He reported that one of the radio manufacturers had stated it might be necessary for the police department to rent space on the roof of the McLeod Building where a radio mast and antenna could be placed.

Advocating the two-way radio, Chief Shute stressed the importance of not only contacting radio-equipped police cars but also obtaining replies from them "that the car is on its way to carry out its instructions."

Chosen Queen

Unanimously elected queen of the annual spring carnival and bazaar of the Ukrainian Greek Orthodox Church in Edmonton, Rose Batiuk, former Victoria high school student of 10224 88 street was crowned in a colorful ceremony held in the parish hall at 96 street and 106 avenue. Eugene Plowiuk officiated at the coronation, assisted by Annie Melanchuk, last year's carnival queen, who graciously handed over her crown and regal cape. William Chobotar, president of the church, announced the election of Queen Rose. The coronation was the highlight of the three-day carnival and bazaar which was attended by several hundred church members and their friends and which was featured by marvellous displays of Ukrainian needle work and other national handicrafts.

POLICE RADIO TEST PLANNED FOR EDMONTON

Survey for a proposed police radio system will be made in Edmonton within a month by a radio manufacturer, according to Police Chief A. G. Shute, who recommended to city council's finance committee Wednesday that the city consider the purchase of a two-way radio.

This system would provide for the broadcasting of instructions to radio-equipped police patrol cars, and replies by patrolmen.

The test will be made to determine whether local or remote control broadcasting is more feasible. For the purposes of the test, a temporary broadcasting station and a radio-equipped car will be used.

LOCAL INSTITUTE WILL CELEBRATE BATTLE OF VIMY

In all parts of the dominion, members of the Canadian Corps will gather this week-end to celebrate the 21st anniversary of the capture of Vimy Ridge by the Canadian troops.

The taking of Vimy Ridge by the Canadians on Easter Monday, April 9, 1917, is said to have been the most perfectly organized and successful battle of the Great War. The Ridge was a naturally strong defensive position converted by the Germans into an almost impregnable bastion. Its slopes were laced by deep belts of wire, protected by countless machine guns housed in concrete emplacements.

The job of capturing this vital position was given to the Canadians, and on April 9, 1917, the entire system of German front line trenches was taken between dawn and 6:30 a.m. By April 11 the whole of Vimy Ridge was securely in Canadian hands, together with 4,000 prisoners and a large number of guns, etc.

To celebrate this great victory, the Edmonton Military Institute will hold its annual dinner in the Prince of Wales armories on Saturday evening, commencing at 7:30. The commemoration of Vimy Ridge is considered the most important function of the year.

Guest speaker will be Lieut.-Col. C. W. Devey, L.S.H. (R.C.), of Calgary. Col. Devey, who is one of the outstanding authorities on cavalry in Canada, will take as his subject "The Canadian Soldier."

Among those invited are the Lieutenant-Governor, Hon. J. C. Bowen; Chief Justice Horace Harvey; Mayor Fry; and L. Y. Cairns, K.C., president of the Chamber of Commerce. It is expected Military District 13 will be represented by a member of the headquarters staff, Calgary.

Col. A. W. Bannard, M.M., is in charge of arrangements, and all active, reserve or retired officers are invited to attend.

LEGISLATURE STARTING ON NINTH WEEK

The legislature on Thursday commenced the ninth week of the current session, the sixth session of the eighth legislature elected since the province was formed.

It is believed that with the entrance of the ninth week, the house commences the final lap of its work.

In some quarters there is a strong belief that the business of the house can be wound up in time to prorogue sometime on Friday, while others feel it will be carried over into Tuesday next in order not to hurry matters too much.

Several bills and resolutions remain on the Order Paper for disposition, including a redistribution resolution and the production tax bills.

Though it has more than 3,000,000 acres of woodland, Great Britain grows only about 6 per cent of the lumber it uses.

CHINA WILL FIGHT TO END DR. TAO SAYS

China, united both in sorrow and in hope, will fight on against Japan to the bitter end, Dr. Heng Chih Tao, Chinese scholar, told a large audience in Memorial hall Wednesday night in addressing a meeting under the auspices of the Canadian League for Peace and Democracy.

Picturing the scenes of bravery now common in China, Dr. Tao said the country was united in a common resolve to oust the invader and was shrinking from no sacrifice that would secure this end.

China now had decreed "general mobilization", he explained. The immense man power of that vast country was being organized to resist the attrition of Japanese aggression.

Pointing out how carefully planned and of long duration the Japanese war aims evidently were, Dr. Tao said that the Chinese people had been caught unaware by the struggle, as they had no higher purpose than to live at peace.

After an initial hesitation, the country, however, swiftly rallied behind the central government and gave it a measure of support unknown in China before.

Appealing to Canadians to urge the withholding of war materials from Japan, Dr. Tao said that China appreciated the sympathy she has received from the world, but hoped that that sentiment would result in practical help.

Dr. Tao, fluent and crisp, with but a bare hint of a Chinese accent, received an ovation at the end of his speech.

TEMPERATURE ON UP-GRADE ON THURSDAY

Making a renewed attempt to sneak into summer weather without arousing another slap from weakening winter, Edmonton temperatures started on the up-grade again Wednesday, moving the maximum reading for the day up to 36 above, registered from 3 p.m. to 4 p.m. From then until early Thursday the temperature declined, reaching the overnight low of 20 above by 3 a.m. and again at 6 a.m.

Clear skies allowing bright sunshine to invade the city, accompanied the 9 a.m. Thursday reading of 33 above, and the forecast at that time was given as "fair and comparatively mild."

Spirit River turned in the highest 8.30 a.m. temperature reading for the near northern towns, the temperature there being 36 above, while Falher was right on its heels with 35 above. On the freezing point with 32 above were Dawson Creek and Mirror Landing.

Aklavik, with 14 below, Fort Smith with 10 below, and Fort Norman with 6 below were the only sub-zero spots in the far north early Thursday, while the other end of the weather scale found Lower Post and Nelson with 28 above.

138 Homesteads Were Filed On During March

During March a total of 138 homesteads were filed in the various land offices in this province, according to figures released on Thursday.

Of the total there were 133 first entries, three seconds and two soldier grants, while the total included 46 entries in various classifications by women.

The Edmonton office showed the heaviest filing with 79, of which 77 were first entries, one secnd and one soldier grant, with 24 women filing in the total.

Peace River was second with 56 first entries, two seconds and one soldier grant, with 22 women included in the total.

Neither Calgary nor Lethbridge recorded any entries during the month.

There are 250,000 varieties of flowering plants on the British Isles.
